8,000,000 Sharp Bayonets Once All Walked, Not Now In 75 Years, Much Done Wise Buying Pays

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1936, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved.)

A practical man is Mussolini—making real the "deeds not words" motto of the late Theodore Roosevelt. Peace, he vows, interests him more than anything. Saying, "We hold out an olive branch," he adds this:

"But pay attention. This olive branch emerges from an immense forest. It is a forest of 8,000,000 bayonets—8,000,000 bayonets whetted to razorlike sharpness and entrusted to young and fearless hearts."

In a forest of 8,000,000 bayonets a little olive branch might feel lonesome, but it is safer there than it would be in China, where they have no Mussolini and no national defense.

A million years ago when our ancestors went out seeking something to eat, preferably some feeble human being easily killed, everybody walked. Now nearly everybody rides. Across George Washington bridge, over the Hudson river, opened five years ago, about one hundred million human beings have crossed in 51,000,000 automobiles, while fewer than 1,000,000 have crossed on foot. Buses alone carried 11,638,000 over the bridge.

How rapidly progress moves once it starts. Seventy-five years ago, both sides of our country were connected by telegraph for the first time. Now men talk around the world by radio. Seventy-five years ago they only talked across the continent, now they fly the continent, and on beyond, across the Pacific Ocean.

Those hostile to new ideas might remember that a little more than seventy-five years ago, men were beaten for re-election to Congress because, as the voters put it, "they were foolish enough to vote money to experiment talking over wires."

They were defeated for willingness to have the government try out Morse's electric telegraph idea.

Buy a good thing, keep it, take care of it; it will ultimately help to take care of you, whether it be real estate or work of art, well selected. Those wise enough to buy good antique works of art are discovering that what cannot be duplicated always has its value.

Today Europe is buying from America at higher prices treasures brought across the ocean by Americans. The Royal Museum of Art and History in Brussels, recently bought here from Mitchell Samuels, a tapestry made in Flanders in 1564, to commemorate the opening of a canal built in that year.

In the same month Mr. Samuels sold to a wealthy German collector in Switzerland, an Ispahan carpet, one of two belonging to the Braganza family of Portugal.

Everybody knows of extraordinary prices obtained by Mr. Morgan during the depression for miniatures and other works of art that he sold.

Fortunately for America, many of the greatest art treasures are here. Several Americans—Mr. Morgan, Mr. Walters, Mr. George Blumenthal, Mr. Widener, Mr. Frick, Mr. Huntington, Mr. John D. Rockfeller, Jr., excel any European collector, except the Rothschild family as a whole.

Major Hiram H. Parke, who has sold more works of art than anybody in America, says the number of buyers has increased within a year, by five to one; a good sign. The new buyers will not regret it, if they buy wisely.

Here is an interesting lady politician named Miss Melinda Alexander—running for Congress. She spends two hours every day in earnest prayer, not for herself. She does not need the job; she prays that Americans may be well represented in Congress.

It is true that no good sales-

U. S. DICTATOR PLOT FLAYED BY LANDON

By WILLIAM R. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 26—Gov. Alfred M. Landon today declared the overwhelming issue of the 1936 campaign was the plan of President Roosevelt's "intimate circle of advisors" to destroy the American form of government and substitute an alien form of federal dictatorship.

All other issues—broken promises, waste, extravagance, political coercion in relief, debauching of the civil service, alliance with crooked city machines, "Farleyizing" of the WPA, fostering of monopoly, warfare on small business, unbalanced budget—Landon said were overshadowed by the "threat to constitutional government that now menaces our country in the New Deal."

Landon made this charge in an address to a cheering crowd estimated at 3000 just outside the Mount Royal station. As he made his way toward a temporary platform that had been erected for him a group of enthusiastic women admirers broke through the police lines. One woman attempted to hug the Governor but was shoved aside by a policeman.

It was his opening stand on his final visit to the Atlantic seaboard after having traversed the conti-

Bartolini Fights for Freedom

In a fight for freedom, expected to force the state's hand in the neck murder, Oscar V. Bartolini of Quincy, admirer of slain Grayce Asquith, appeared in federal district court today.

The Quincy handy man and ex-butcher, in custody since the night of October 8, three days after the finding of the dismembered legs of the Weymouth "Merry Widow," was taken to court from Dedham jail where he has been held in lieu of $50,000 bail as a material witness.

WIDEN LYONS' SEARCH

His freedom was sought in habeas corpus proceedings, brought by his counsel, and the move was expected to force the state to divulge secret evidence at the hearing before Judge Hugh D. McLellan in the crowded federal courtroom.

Two Norfolk County deputy sheriffs took Bartolini from the jail to the courtroom.

The move was made while state

MARRIAGE A MONTH AFTER CORONATION

Copyright, 1936, by Universal Service.

London, Oct. 26—Within a few days Mrs. Ernest Simpson of Baltimore, Md., U. S. A., will obtain her divorce decree in England, and some eight months thereafter she will be married to Edward VIII, King of England.

King Edward's most intimate friends state with the utmost positiveness that he is very deeply and sincerely enamored of Mrs. Simpson, that his love is a righteous affection, and that almost immediately after the coronation he will take her as his consort.

It is stated definitely that King Edward is convinced that this is both the right thing to do and the wise thing to do.

He believes that it would be an actual mistake for a King of England to marry into any of the royal houses of the continent of Europe, and so involve himself and his empire in the complications and disasters of these royal houses.

He believes further that in this day and generation it is absurd to try to maintain the tradition of royal intermarriages, with all the physical as well as political disabilities likely to result from that out-

TELLS CHEERING BALTIMORE THOUSANDS HE'LL WIN

nent following his Los Angeles speech last week, and the Republican nominee opened his final Eastern drive here with a smashing attack upon the New Deal.

He warned the American people against deceiving themselves on the goal of the New Deal.

Governor Landon said:

In essence this campaign boils down to one issue: Do you believe in the fundamental New Deal policies? Do you believe in a program that is directed toward undermining constitutional government and the American way of life?

As the campaign progresses the administration strategy has become plain. You must have observed it. Mr. Roosevelt and his spokesmen are trying to confine attention to the first three or four months of his administration; the first three or four months before the New Deal started on his untrodden paths. Beyond that they speak only of relief and recovery. The rest of the major issues developed under the New Deal they deliberately evade. They do none of the usual pointing with pride.

They ask for another four years of power because back in 1933 for a few weeks they remembered their platform pledges. They hope the country will forget how those pledges were then thrown out of the window. They ask for another mandate because of their warm hearts and humanitarian instincts.

Ask if they, and they alone possess humanitarian instincts, and they alone would keep our fellow Americans from starving. They hope the country will forget what every community knows—the waste and extravagance and the humiliating political coercion involved in the handling of relief.

Millstones

In their platform this year, as in their platform four years ago, they denounce monopoly and promise to enforce the anti-trust laws. They hope the country will forget that in their great recovery measure, the NRA, they fostered monopoly and suspended the anti-trust laws. They talk of preserving American business.

They hope the country will forget the promise of a breathing spell that was broken when Congress met last January and that was remembered again only when the election loomed ahead. They profess their concern in the prosperity of the little fellow.

They hope the country will forget what millstones they hung about the little fellow's neck in the NRA, the invisible taxes, and in the latest tax act which will hold back the growth of small concerns by penalizing the use of earnings for expansion.

They tell us a balanced budget is on the way. They hope the country will forget that six times in the past four years the President has promised to balance the budget and only last week he promised the seventh time. They tell us they have made our savings safe.

Lip Service

They hope the country will forget that their continued squandering threatens to destroy the value of all savings. They dwell on social security legislation. They hope the country will forget that this measure is a gross betrayal of social security.

They give lip service to the American form of government. They hope the country will forget that nine out of the eleven major statutes enacted by their administration have been held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

They boast that business is better. They hope the country will forget that it went into a slump after the New Deal measures became operative, and became really better only when the Supreme Court of the United States knocked off some of its shackles by holding the NRA unconstitutional.

They talk of recovery and they hope the country will forget that in spite of improvement 11 million persons are still unemployed and 20 million are still on the relief rolls.

So I might go on enumerating New Deal policies, every one of which would be a major issue in any ordinary campaign. Waste and extravagance in government. The debauching of the Civil Service. The alliance with corrupt city machines.

The extending of Farley methods throughout the states with the WPA, and finally, the illegal use of your money, the taxpayer's money, for propaganda to build up class hatred and entrench the New Deal in power.

But for the moment we can put all these issues aside and turn to what I said at the beginning is the overwhelming issue in this campaign—the preservation of constitutional government and the American way of life.

On the one side, on the side of the New Deal, we find a strange new group. Its adherents believe that the principles upon which the nation was founded and has grown great, no longer can serve us.

They believe in an all-powerful Chief Executive and the subservience of Congress and the courts to his will. They believe in the destruction of state rights and of home rule. They believe in the concentration of political and economic authority in the White House in Washington.

And where does this lead? Let them tell us where it leads. On Page 28 of the Democratic Digest, an official publication of the so-called Democratic national committee, for March, 1936, we find these words:

"The original guillotine which executed Louis XVI, loyal friend of the American colonies when they needed a friend, was sold in France on St. Valentine's Day for $167.

"With American liberties at stake, it might not be inappropriate to buy this guillotine and set it up in front of the new judicial temple which frowns across the park that separates it from the Capitol."

This is their position, stated in their own official document.

The Other Side

Now let us see who is on the other side.

On the other side, supporting your cause, stand those who believe in the American form of government. In addition to Republicans we find the Democratic nominee for the presidency in 1924 and the Democratic nominee for the presidency in 1928, and following them we find millions of Democratic men and women of courage and integrity who all their lives have supported the principles of Jefferson, Cleveland and Wilson.

These people are Americans before they are partisans. They recognize that this strange New Deal has betrayed the principles of the Democratic Party and of the American form of government.

In the last analysis, that is the question upon which you will cast your ballots on November third. But when you ask Mr. Roosevelt about this and try to pin him down, he says we Republicans are telling bedtime stories.

I have asked him and asked repeatedly, does he intend, if re-elected, to revive the NRA and the AAA, which the Supreme Court has declared to be contrary to our American form of government? So far his reply has been a long, loud silence.

There can be an honest difference of opinion as to whether the proposals of the Administration for one-man government holds the solution of our social and economic problems, but there can be no difference of opinion on this; the President's theory of government should be presented frankly to the people at the polls. He has no right to ask for votes without telling the people his intentions. Frankness in government is just as vital as truth in securities.

My Position

Repeatedly I have stated my position with all the force at my command: I am for the preservation of the American Constitution and the American system of free enterprise. I link constitutional government with the American system of free enterprise because they belong together.

Every government is adapted to the sort of social system the people have built up and demand. After all, there can be only two systems of government, the one where the government is the master of the people, and the other where it is the servant of the people. May I say again this is the real issue in this campaign.

In certain countries the people are accustomed to being directed from above; they would be lost if they were on their own. So they get the kind of government that gives them direction, that tells them what to do, that regiments their daily lives. That kind of government is dictatorship. Do we want that here? There are some who do.

Listen to what a high official on this administration has to say:

"Planning will necessarily become a function of the federal government. Either that or the planning agency will supersede that government. Business will logically be required to disappear."

This is not an over-statement of the fact for emphasis. It is literally meant. Planning implies guidance as to capital uses. This would limit entrance into or expansion of operations. Planning also implies adjustment of production to consumption.

New Industries will not just happen as the automobile industry did. They will have to be foreseen, to be argued for. The future is becoming visible in Russia. The new kind of economic machinery we have in prospect cannot function in our present economy.

Do you want the kind of dictatorship this New Dealer leader advocates?

The builders of the American system were not of this breed. They valued freedom; freedom to worship God in his own way, freedom to write as they pleased, freedom to live their daily lives as they pleased so long as they did not infringe the right of others.

They did not want any government to tell them how to manage their affairs. They wanted the sort of constitutional government best adapted to the way of life they had already established.

This sort of government the Founding Fathers worked out at Philadelphia; government that gave free scope to the energies of the people.

But it enabled them to take collective action against all foes abroad and all exploiters at home. It recognized that the government to be set up in the Federal city would be too remote to manage many of the detailed affairs of a vast and diversified country. So it sharply limited Federal powers and reserved all other powers to the states and to the people.

For protection against tyranny it set up three independent branches—the executive, the legislative and the judicial. Finally, because the people demanded it before they would ratify, it provided the great bill of rights to safeguard the liberties of the people.

And the Constitution has worked as our forefathers planned. It was the most liberal plan of government in the world when it was adopted.

It still is, because it is a living thing that can grow and change with the changing needs of the country, the changing thought of the country, the changing desires of the country. Under its protection our country has gone forward to constantly higher and higher social and economic standards.

It will continue to do so without any fundamental change in our American form of government.

Why do I recall this history? Because it bears directly on the tremendous issue that confronts us in this campaign. Because the threat to constitutional government that now menaces our country in the New Deal is a threat as well to the American way of life on which our present and future welfare depends.

Because it is the essence of the New Deal that the Constitution must go in order to give men in Washington the power to make America over; to destroy the American way of life and establish a foreign way of life in its place.

Intimate Circle

Let us not deceive ourselves. The President may not see where his policies are leading, but the men in the intimate circle of his advisers see perfectly well where he must come out.

They have the pattern of their planned economy before them. What at first seemed a confused jig saw puzzle to those outside of that charmed circle, has been taking shape in the last three years. Our taxes, our communities, our jobs and our business are to be directed from Washington. The profit motive is to be eliminated. Business as we know it is to disappear.

Observe how one piece after other of the jig saw puzzle is moved into place. Here is a piece labeled "NRA." It tells men how their businesses must be run.

Here is another piece labeled "AAA." It tells farmers what they shall plant and limits the food production of the nation.

Here is another piece, the latest tax measure that will hinder business institutions from building up reserves to see them through another depression and that in the event of such a depression will force them into bankruptcy or into the hands of the government.

And here another piece, one huge blank check after another, given by a rubber-stamp Congress to an all-powerful President, which if continued will make Congress a mere arm of the executive, and which will eventually create the misery, the poverty, the hopelessness out of which dictatorships arise.

Yes, the pattern is gradually becoming clearer. Shall we give four years more to the men who are working on this foreign pattern?

Shall we give them what they will construe as a mandate to finish the job?

Or shall we vote to return to the American system under the American Constitution?

I know what your answer will be on the third of November.

G. O. P. REVEALS MORE VOTE FRAUDS

tinued until tomorrow—the case of a Brighton man whose name appears on the Ward 21 list and also on the Chelsea list.

25 IN 7 BEDS

Attorney Theodore P. Hollis, one of the Republican counsel, just previous to the hearing, had charged that investigators had unearthed one group of 25 persons, listed as "permanent residents" of a house where there were only seven rooms and seven beds.

"But this is a comparatively mild case," he said. "There is another ramshackle old building, known to have been vacant for years and unfit for habitation. Yet this place has 30 persons listed as living there by the police census—thirty potential voters.

"WHERE'S CATHERINE?"

"Another was discovered by a member of the Republican State Committee, who himself owns a single family house.

"One political canvasser rang the bell there and asked for a certain 'Catherine.' There wasn't any 'Catherine' and the canvasser was told so.

"'She must live here,' the visitor insisted. 'She's registered as a Democratic voter from this address.'"

Attorney Hollis also related investigators' discovery of a man who might qualify as the champion repeater.

"He was registered at no fewer than six different addresses on six different voting lists," Hollis said.

"He always used the same last name, but with slightly varying initials in each case. In each ward or precinct this man had formed acquaintances who were able to identify him—by his last name, of course."

NAME ON 2 LISTS

The fourth hearing of charges brought before the Boston Election Commission opened today with the testimony of John P. Haley of Orkney road, Brighton, that his name is on the voting lists of Chelsea as well as of Ward 21, Brighton.

Attorneys George L. Rabb and Charles Alpert, other special counsel for the Republican Committee, sought to establish that this name was also registered from Commonwealth avenue under the name of John J. Haley.

The witness said that he had registered from Orkney road in June, but that it must have been because he used to live in Chelsea with sister that his name appeared on the Chelsea list.

He denied that he had ever registered as John J. Haley, and explained similarity in age and other items of description with that man by saying that he had a cousin of the name who was about the same age and looked like him.

Attorney Rabb then asked Haley if he hadn't registered an automobile from the Chelsea address on January 1, 1936, although claiming to live in Orkney road at the time.

Haley said he had registered the car from the home of a sister, in Highland street, Chelsea, but that was because it was his sister's car. He added that he hadn't used it twice.

Rabb put the same question to him about his automobile operating license and Haley answered that he had just sent it back to the registry for renewal without paying particular attention to the address.

ATTORNEYS IN CLASH

Questioning by Rabb was enlivened by heated verbal tilts between the Republican counsel and William F. A. Graham, attorney for Haley. Chairman David B. Shaw of the election commission several times had to tell them both to keep quiet.

One one of these occasions, Graham shouted that he represented the "League of Decency in Voting."

"I'm not here for publicity purposes," he said. "I'm getting paid for my work."

"You mean that's the same as the Jackson Club, don't you?" Rabb wanted to know. "Aren't you afraid that it will be shown that he (Haley) is illegally registered as a voter?"

At this point Shaw told them both to quiet down and he told Graham to sit down. Graham said he didn't have any chair, so attaches brought him one.

Members of the Democratic as well as Republican party have joined in the charges that next Tuesday will see one of the most flagrant attempts at wholesale repeating.

100,000 IN STATE

It is estimated that there are possibly 100,000 persons registered illegally throughout the state.

Attorney Hollis warned that criminal prosecution will follow for those who try taking part in this proposed fraud.

Not only will police and election officers be on the lookout for repeaters, he said, but the Republican state committee will have special watchers at every polling booth in the state.

All Flat

Chicago, Oct. 26 (AP)—A tipsy motorist who drove into a gas station complained that his car was "dragging awfully" and "all the tires must be flat."

Investigation revealed that for several blocks he had towed another automobile because of hooked bumpers.

What Landon Stands For:

Free Speech

GOVERNOR LANDON believes the misuse of government powers to silence the critics of a political administration is a flagrant invasion of the liberties of the people.

He contends no citizen is free, if he runs the risk of persecution by government agents in expressing an opinion that conflicts with the political acts of the prevailing government.

He argues that no citizen is free, if he is not secure in the constitutional right that guarantees him against unlawful seizure of his person or his property.

These rights of the citizen have not been secure under the Roosevelt Administration.

Critics of the New Deal have been silenced, on the radio and elsewhere. Exposures of New Deal fallacies have been banished from motion picture screens. Private letters and telegrams have been seized by government agents.

Governor Landon is determined that these, and all other invasions of the rights of the American people, shall cease.

He champions the free and undisturbed enjoyment of the rights and privileges the American system of government bestows, by all citizens, whether or not they are in agreement with the political party that happens to be in power.

LANDON LEADING IN CROSSLEY POLL

By ARCHIBALD M. CROSSLEY

Director of the Crossley National Poll for This Newspaper

(Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

New York, Oct. 26—Fourteen men interested in polls got together at a luncheon a day or two ago at a downtown restaurant in Manhattan, and a thing happened which seems to me extremely significant of the pre-election situation in this Presidential campaign.

The group had come together to talk, in a technical way, about polls and poll-taking methods. This, as you may know, has become quite a profession.

The various polls show slight but distinct differences, this being due, not to any leanings or preferences, but to the basic method which each national poll has worked out for taking a weighted sample of public opinion which will truly represent the whole.

IMPARTIAL EXPERTS

There are also some political writers who have made a close study of polls, and some are writing analytical articles about polls. The group included some of these, as well as the key men in the various polls now being published.

Now, all of these may be taken as open-minded men, exceptionally well informed about the background and "inside" of the polls, their own as well as their rivals'. Which is why it seemed important to me, when someone suggested that we take a vote as to whether Landon or Roosevelt should win.

This was done. And the vote stood: Landon, 7—Roosevelt, 7—an exact tie of the poll experts!

I decided to go farther. So I passed around a list of states, asking each man to check what states he conceded as certain for Landon, and certain for Roosevelt. There was ready agreement as to these "in-the-bag" states, and the list, of course, showed Roosevelt leading, with the Solid South.

SHOW LANDON VICTORY

Then I asked them to check the remaining states—the unconceded ones—giving their opinion as to whether Landon or Roosevelt would carry each state. I repeat, these opinions rested on exceptional knowledge. Thirteen of the 14 participated.

Here is how these 13 poll experts forecasted the unconceded states:

Colorado—5 Landon, 6 Roosevelt, 2 undecided.

Delaware—7 Landon, 3 Roosevelt, 3 undecided.

Illinois—8 Landon, 4 Roosevelt, 1 undecided.

Indiana—7 Landon, 5 Roosevelt, 1 undecided.

Iowa—10 Landon, 2 Roosevelt, 1 undecided.

Kansas—13 Landon.

Massachusetts—13 Landon.

Michigan—9 Landon, 4 Roosevelt.

Minnesota—3 Landon, 5 Roosevelt, 5 undecided.

Missouri—1 Landon, 11 Roosevelt, 1 undecided.

Nebraska—6 Landon, 5 Roosevelt, 2 undecided.

New Jersey — 12 Landon, 1 Roosevelt.

New York—10 Landon, 3 Roosevelt.

Oklahoma—1 Landon, 11 Roosevelt, 1 undecided.

Ohio—9 Landon, 3 Roosevelt, 1 undecided.

Pennsylvania — 10 Landon, 2 Roosevelt, 1 undecided.

Rhode Island—11 Landon, 2 Roosevelt.

South Dakota—12 Landon, 1 Roosevelt.

Washington — 1 Landon, 9 Roosevelt, 3 undecided.

West Virginia—6 Landon, 5 Roosevelt, 2 undecided.

Wisconsin—5 Landon, 7 Roosevelt, 1 undecided.

Wyoming—11 Landon, 1 Roosevelt, 1 undecided.

Deal Lashes WPA Workers Into Voting Line

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Special to Boston Evening American

Chicago, Oct. 26—The American voters are experiencing the worst reign of political terrorism in history.

There has never been anything like it, on such a widespread scale in a presidential election.

Here are a few examples:

Men who wore Landon buttons have been fired off WPA jobs.

Women who said they would vote for Landon have been threatened with the loss of relief aid.

WPA workers have been taken to the booths in WPA trucks and ordered to register Democratic.

$1.00 WEEKLY

In this state the Iroquois Illinois Club levies a similar tax for political purposes on the pay envelopes of public employes. It is a Democratic club, backing Roosevelt for president and Horner for Governor.

In Pennsylvania men on public works have been required to donate $1 a week out of their slim pay envelopes to the New Deal campaign.

In Kansas City, possibly 60,000 "ghost voters" have been registered to vote under ficticious names from vacant lots and abandoned houses.

In New York City, there is a suspicion that more than 5000 such "fake voters" have been illegally registered.

COURT INTERVENES

Widespread registration frauds in St. Louis caused the courts to intervene in the interest of "honest elections."

Because of similar wholesale frauds in Chicago, the Illinois legislature passed a law to provide for new registration of every voter.

The New Deal sent one of its Washington publicity experts to edit a Maine newspaper until the Maine election was over.

The New Deal lost Maine.

Roosevelt and Garner political posters were plastered on WPA projects in the Keystone State.

Business men who publicly oppose New Deal policies have found their income tax returns were promptly placed under an investigation by the government.

Chairman James A. Farley said at the outset that it was going to be a "dirty campaign."

grown custom.

His brother, the Duke of York, has been extremely happy and fortunate in his marriage to a lady of the people, a commoner, so-called.

King Edward believes that the marriage he contemplates would be equally happy, and that it would help him to do what he wants to do—namely, reign in the interests of the people.

Finally, he believes that the most important thing for the peace and welfare of the world is an intimate understanding and relationship between England and America, and that his marriage with this very gifted lady may help to bring about that beneficial co-operation between English-speaking nations.

Primarily, however, the King's transcendant reason for marrying Mrs. Simpson is that he ardently loves her, and does not see why a King should be denied the privilege of marrying the lady he loves.

So, in all human probability in June, 1937, one month after the ceremonies of the coronation, will follow the festivities of the marriage of King Edward VIII of England to the very charming and intelligent Mrs. Ernest Simpson of Baltimore, Maryland, U. S. A.

Newshawks of World Wait In Ipswich for "Wally"

Ipswich, England, Oct. 26—Watching minor criminal cases, scores of foreign correspondents today awaited in Ipswich's courtroom the moment, probably tomorrow, when a bewigged clerk will mumble "Simpson vs. Simpson."

The trial of Mrs. Wallis Simpson's uncontested divorce action will last but a few minutes. The routine cannot vary. It has never changed through English centuries. But the promise of these few minutes of cut and dried legality made this city a mecca of romance.

The charming American lady from Baltimore will obtain a provisional divorce decree from Ernest Simpson, Harvard-educated shipping man of London. Within six months she will be free to remarry.

Charles Dickens, who haunts this quaint city and who often reported the heart beats of its courtrooms, should have lived to write tomorrow's story. As it is, the foreign correspondents continue arriving by airplanes and trains. Some have left the Spanish war fronts and others the diplomatic council tables where the peace of Eurpoe is being plugged.

They will tell the world of the sparkle of Mrs. Simpson when she appears.

She has not arrived yet. Photographers made a house on the outskirts of Ipswich world-famous—after which they discovered it was occupied by a different section of the family.

But we wait for tomorrow, with a watchful eye in case the Simpson case should come before its time.

New York, Oct. 26 (INS)—Dorothy Kilgallen, globe-girdling reporter for International News Service, Boston Evening American, and the New York Evening Journal, today awoke to face a vista of congratulations and receptions planned in honor of her successful race around the world.

With cheering thousands on the side-lines, Miss Kilgallen was to be welcomed home at City Hall by Mayor Fiorello H. Laguardia, noted for his interest in aviation developments.

Following the City Hall reception, Miss Kilgallen was to be guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Banshees. On Wednesday, she will attend a luncheon given by the Columbia School of Journalism.

Miss Kilgallen stepped from a 'plane at Newark Airport just as dawn was breaking yesterday after a fast flight from the Pacific Coast where she arrived aboard the China Clipper from Manila on Saturday.

She was accompanied on the transcontinental dash by her father, James L. Kilgallen, famous staff correspondent for International News Service.

Her first act was to embrace her mother who had been waiting eagerly at the airport for the plane's arrival.

Once at home she found herself swamped with flowers, messages, telephone calls and visitors. She took it all "in stride" however, and remarked:

"Thing I absolutely want most is to get back to regular assignments. I have an awful feeling people may think I'm some sort of prima donna. If only they don't give me a merry razz! I'd like to go on a good murder story and slip very unobtrusively into the press line."

DEBATE URGED BY SISTER OF BIRMINGHAM

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

Two of Boston's women political leaders today levelled attacks against James Roosevelt, eldest son of President Roosevelt and generally considered spokesman for his father.

Florence Birmingham, sister of the late Leo M. Birmingham of Brighton, for years Democratic floor leader in the Massachusetts House, today challenged young Roosevelt, in an open letter, to a public debate.

Mrs. Elizabeth W. Pigeon, former Boston School Committee member and former chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs department of education, attacked him for his criticism of the educational policies of Governor Alfred M. Landon, Republican presidential candidate.

Miss Birmingham advised the President's eldest son to defend his own record in Massachusetts politics, stop trying to fool the people of Massachusetts with "fake" propaganda on the educational policies of Governor Landon in Kansas, and explain the $5 starvation budget allowance given to Massachusetts women on relief.

RESIDENCE MYSTERY

Professing to be in serious doubt as to the real address of James Roosevelt, Miss Birmingham entrusted her letter for delivery to Chairman Joseph McGrath of the Democratic state committee.

She accused James of "skipping out" of Massachusetts after "appointments he made to federal offices over the heads of our United States senators."

"Now he has returned to instruct citizens to vote for his father," she declared.

"James is supposed to live in Brookline, but he has been out of the state so long that nobody knows just where to locate him," Miss Birmingham wrote. "So many strangers have registered in Wards 21 and 22 that I wondered if I should perhaps send this letter in care of Michael Ward.

"I did think of communicating with James Roosevelt in care of the Boston Democratic Club, the organization which he called together a few years ago, made up of Democratic members of the state legislature and the Boston City Council.

DEBATE CHALLENGE

"However, I learned on inquiry that James ran out on this club shortly after the 1934 election, apparently forgetting the purpose for which he formed it, and abandoning his promise to take care of such members as were defeated in local elections.

"Now I should like to ask some real important questions that I wrote myself, and they are questions which many people in Massachusetts are daily asking. These I would like to ask son James publicly, and am writing to you for his address so that I may challenge him to a public debate."

"James Roosevelt seems so concerned about the school teachers in Kansas that I should like to ask him about the jobless women in Massachusetts, where he is supposed to reside. For instance, where was James when I was trying to find jobs for these women. How can he explain the fact that they were actually barred from work while socialites were on the relief payrolls?

"How explain their budget allowance which was no salary, not even a bare existence? Does he think $6 a week is a living wage, especially when the NRA and the scarcity program raised prices? Was it just for these jobless women to be told by relief officials 'there is nothing for you,' at the same time that socialite executives on the emergency relief program, without experience, are receiving salaries larger than professional men and women, with long experience, received in the hey-day of prosperity?

JUST DEAL FACTS

"I am most anxious to have James Roosevelt answer these questions at a forum period, with discussion following. For three long years I fought for jobs for the needy women, leading delegation after delegation of them to relief headquarters in a futile search for jobs, and at last was even forced to lead a picket line of these forgotten women.

"Then James was absent. Now he is back in the state worrying about the Kansas school teachers. I am desirous of reminding him publicly of the old truthful maxim that charity begins at home."

Mrs. Pigeon points out that the source of the younger Roosevelt's information regarding school conditions in Kansas, as quoted by him, came from [illegible] Markham, Kansas state superintendent of schools, Democrat New Deal candidate for re-election, originally appointed by Governor Woodring, now acting Secretary of War.

A phase of the Markham reports, which Roosevelt failed to quote, she said was this:

"Not a boy or girl was denied the opportunities of a common school education in Kansas.

"A common school education was available for every boy and girl in Kansas last year and every other year since I've been superintendent."

The President's eldest son in his radio attack last night read excerpts from letters from Superintendent Markham to Senator McGill, a Democrat, and from Kansas newspapers.

One Markham letter as read, gave the information that there were 444 school districts in Kansas that made provision for sending their pupils to other districts and did not open school at all.

FACTS VITAL

Mrs. Pigeon stressed that Superintendent Markham is not only a Democrat but was originally appointed by Acting Secretary of War Woodring, then governor of Kansas.

"From this, you can readily see that any published statements of school conditions in Kansas would not be favorable to Mr. Landon unless they were based absolutely on facts which could not be refuted," commented Mrs. Pigeon.

"Surely the official spokesman of the National Administration, now touring Massachusetts, can hardly claim to know as much about the schools of Kansas as the state superintendent of schools of that state knows.

"Permit me also to emphasize that the state superintendent of schools of Kansas repudiates out of his own record the misstatements made by the member of the family of the President to a Massachusetts audience."

Roosevelt to Seek Negro Vote in Speech Today

Washington, Oct. 26 (INS)—With the Negro vote regarded as a possible balance of power in some of the key states east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio, President Roosevelt's address this afternoon here at Howard University was being waited with more than passing interest in political circles.

The President's speech at the Negro institution was to be the first of nine he has planned to make between now and election day. White House officials, calling attention to the fact his appearance at Howard University was for the purpose of dedicating a new chemistry building erected by the Public Works Administration, said the address would be non-political.

The Democratic high command quite frankly has made a heavy play to win the normally Republican Negro vote over to the Roosevelt ticket. Polls indicate they have been meeting with success—presumably because of work relief.

Negroes, therefore, were looking forward to Mr. Roosevelt's speech at Howard even though it had been hailed in advance as of a non-political nature.

The Washington Tribune, sole newspaper printed in the National Capital exclusively for Negroes, declares editorially that the President, in his appearance at Howard, will be "making a bid" to win states north of the Mason-Dixon line where there is a heavy Negro registration. Those mentioned are New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New Jersey, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri and Michigan.

Haigis Lauds Landon Talk

By L. CONANT, JR.

Political activity and excitement reached new highs today as members of the state Republican ticket launched their homestretch drive in the interests of Governor Landon and the overthrow of the Beacon Hill regime.

From now until election day, the Bay State will witness a fervor of campaigning perhaps unequalled in its history. As the great climax comes the Jumbo Jubilee at the Boston Garden Saturday evening with the dynamic John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the National Republican Committee, the featured speaker.

That Governor Landon stands for the "great traditions of Massachusetts" was the high praise sounded today by John W. Haigis, Republican gubernatorial nominee.

LEADS LANDON SPEECH

Referring to the "liberty speech" of the Sunflower Governor in Los Angeles, Haigis asserted that it should be "read and heeded by every true American citizen."

"In that talk," he continued, "Governor Landon declared:"

"'The present administration has destroyed freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

"The great traditions of Massachusetts are recognized in this speech," said Haigis. "And in Governor Landon, the people of this state recognize a great leader in the cause of liberty."

A feature of day's battle between Haigis and his Democratic opponent was an open letter to State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley by Michael H. Corcoran, chairman of the Haigis Associates of Greater Boston and a member of the Boston Sinking Fund Commission.

LETTER TO HURLEY

The letter scored as "astonishing the refusal" of Hurley "to permit Seamans, Stetson and Tuttle, representing John W. Haigis, to make a list of your bond purchases as State Treasurer."

"You seem to assume," the letter continued, "that your acts as State Treasurer should be treated as your private affair. Your acts in an office of public trusts are matters with regard to which the public is entitled to have full information. No citizen can form a fair opinion as to how you would conduct yourself as Governor if you are unwilling to disclose to them your record as State Treasurer."

Tonight at the Municipal auditorium in Springfield and in Deerfield the entire state ticket will speak before a large audience. Governor-elect Lewis O. Barrows, of Maine will be the guest speaker at the Deerfield rally.

A broadcast of the Springfield rally will be carried by WBZ from nine to ten.

Roosevelt Son Offers Balm

By WILLIAM C. CONWAY

Democratic state ticket candidates, in an effort to rally from the snub given their candidacies by President Roosevelt on his visit here last Wednesday, today enter the final week of the campaign with the realization that their battle of ballots will not be over until the polls close on November 3.

The failure of President Roosevelt to call for the election of the state ticket candidates in Massachusetts as he has done in several other states on his campaign tours throughout the country has been felt by the candidates and their followers.

This fact became evident when James Roosevelt made an effort to apply balm to the injured feelings of the candidates and their followers, particularly those of Governor Curley, at the gigantic testimonial dinner given State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, in Mechanics Building last night.

The younger Roosevelt, who has reiterated innumerable times during the past two weeks of the campaign that he speaks as an individual and not as a spokesman for his father, took advantage of the audience of more than 10,000 persons who had gathered to pay tribute to State Treasurer Hurley, to call for the election of Governor Curley to the United States Senate.

"That honor rightfully belongs to him," Roosevelt said. "For over 35 years as a legislator, as a leader, he has contributed immeasurably to the prestige of our state. He will carry to the Senate, as our junior senator, the prestige he has won in your hearts."

Although the President's son did not refer to him by name, Roosevelt paid tribute to State Treasurer Hurley for the aggressive and clean campaign which he has been waging for governor.

Although predictions of victory were made frequently by the speakers, State Treasurer Hurley in his address warned his listeners against over-confidence.

"We must not be lulled into inactivity by an over-confidence of sure victory," he said.

State Treasurer Hurley assailed his Republican gubernatorial nominee for the "vicious and slanderous attacks" which he charged have been made by John W. Haigis on his public record.

During the evening, Charles S. Canfield, president of the Boston Central Labor Union, announced that his organization had voted to endorse the candidacy of State Treasurer Hurley and the entire state ticket.

State Treasurer Hurley cut short his address to give Governor Curley an opportunity to talk to the huge gathering.

Mrs. Charles F. Hurley shared honors with her husband. She was presented with a basket of flowers in behalf of the audience by Miss Mary Doyle of Cambridge.

20,000 TO HEAR HAMILTON TALK

National attention will be focused on Massachusetts next Saturday night, when John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the G. O. P. national committee, unlimbers for one of the final broadsides of the campaign at Boston Garden.

Preparations have been made to accommodate 20,000 persons in the Garden following a gigantic torchlight parade through the streets of Boston.

With Hamilton on the speaker's platform will be the whole state ticket, headed by John W. Haigis, candidate for governor; Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., candidate for United States senator, and Leverett Saltonstall, candidate for lieutenant-governor.

Hamilton's speech will go on the air. It will be a nation-wide hookup. For the accommodation of the huge audience and overflow, a complete new loud speaker system is being installed.

Congressman Joseph Martin, Jr., of North Attleboro, eastern campaign manager for Landon and Knox, will be among the honor guests. A special message will be read from Governor Landon.

Roosevelt Seeks Reds' Support, Colby Charges

Philadelphia, Oct. 26 — Denying President Roosevelt's avowed repudiation of Communist support, Bainbridge Colby, once a Democratic secretary of state, charged the President in a speech here with reaching out for just that support and, in so doing, stabbing his party to death in the state of Minnesota.

Of thousands who filled the Metropolitan Opera House, this former Democratic leader asked if the "great Democratic party of history" was "to be done to death by a cabal of faithless men" for the advancement of "alien theories and weak minded obsessions." He exclaimed:

"Ah, Mr. President, when you say you repudiate Communistic support, give us at least a few days to think you do.

"Don't, in almost the next breath, reach out for it and in your eagerness to get it stab your own party to death in a great state like Minnesota.

"The people welcomed your assurances. They would like to think your word as good as a government bond, or as a government bond used to be. But, how can they pay any attention to what you say, when what you do thunders so loudly in their ears that they can hardly hear what you say?"

14 PROFESSORS AT CHICAGO U. FOR LANDON

Special to Boston Evening American

Indianapolis, Oct. 26—Fourteen University of Chicago professors, among them several of America's foremost scientists and scholars, today pledged their votes to Governor Alfred M. Landon in a public statement declaring their "right to complete expression."

The statement, signed by men distinguished throughout the world for their work, was presented to the Republican nominee here. It declared:

"Because of the widespread newspaper publicity given to the political utterances of a few members of the University of Chicago's faculty, we have been told that many people hold the erroneous impression that these utterances represent the political viewpoint of the University of Chicago and its faculty.

"The University of Chicago is a non-political institution. Each member of the faculty has the right to complete expression of his own political views.

"No member of the faculty has any authority to act as representative of the views of the faculty generally or of the university.

"Illustrative of that right of complete political freedom, we the undersigned wish publicly to announce that we shall vote for Governor Alf M. Landon for President of the United States on November 3."

LANDON IS THANKFUL

Governor Landon, after receiving the professors' statement, said:

"It is with a sense of deep gratification that I have received the endorsement signed by the fourteen professors.

"All of us have known for many years of the outstanding work of a number of these men. They have made some of the greatest contributions of our generation to modern civilization. I was particularly interested to note the endorsement of Dr. Dick. I have greatly admired the work he has been doing to save the children of America from ravages of scarlet fever.

"It is likewise pleasing to note that Professor McLaughlin, one of the leading authorities on the American Constitution, is exerting his influence in this most vital issue of the campaign."

LAW DEAN SIGNS

The signers, many of them "distinguished service" professors, are:

Professor Arthur H. Compton, Nobel prize winner and world renowned as the leading authority on the cosmic ray.

Professor Andrew C. McLaughlin, foremost authority on the development of the American Constitution, whose volume, "A Constitutional History of the United States," won the 1935 Pulitzer prize.

Professor Henry Gordon Hale, dean of physical sciences, chairman of the physics department, former president of the American Physical Society and author of many standard text books.

Dr. George F. Dick chairman of the university's department of medicine, known throughout the world for his discoveries on the cause and cure of scarlet fever. With his wife, Dr. Gladys Dick, he isolated the germ causing scarlet fever and developed a preventive vaccine and curative serum.

Professor Harry A. Bigelow, dean of the university's law school and recognized authority on the law of real and personal property.

Professor Edgar J. Goodspeed, chairman of the department of New Testament and early Christian literature, widely known for his new translation of the New Testament in modern English.

Professor William N. Mitchell, acting dean of the school of business and expert on production and production costs.

Professor Rollo L. Lyman, education expert.

Professor Gilbert A. Bliss, chairman of the department of mathematics, former president of the American Mathematical Society and a member of the National Academy of Science.

HONORED AT HARVARD

Professor Leonard E. Dickson, renowned mathematician, recently honored at Harvard's tercentenary celebration, former president of the American Mathematical Society and member of the National Academy of Science.

Professor Fay-Cooper Cole, chairman of the anthropology department foremost expert on primitive man, especially on the American Indian. He has served in many scientific expeditions and formerly was president of the American Anthropological Society.

Professor Rollin T. Chamberlin, editor of the Journal of Geology, widely known as an expert on structural geology.

Professor William A. Nitzen, chairman of the department of romance languages, and former president of the Modern Languages Association of America.

Professor Anton J. Carlson, chairman of the department of physiology, one of America's best known biologists, and former president of the American Physiological Society.

Grippe

Now when the germs of Grippe abound, physicians advise keeping the bowels open. Constipation poisons the blood, lowering your resistance to the germs of infectious diseases.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle and so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Just try Nujol regularly for the next month and see if you don't feel better than you ever suspected you could.

Ask your druggist for Nujol and insist on the genuine.

YOUR Pay to Be Reduced

You should know that under the NEW DEAL social security law:

1—Commencing with the FIRST pay day in 1937 and EVER AFTER while you are employed your employer MUST deduct from your pay a tax of 1%, then 1½%, then 2%, then 2½% and finally 3% and turn it over to the government in Washington for "Old Age Benefits."

2—You cannot get "Old Age Benefits" until you reach 65 years of age after 1941.

3—If you are only 25 years old and your pay is but $125 per month until you are 65 years of age, your pay will be taxed as follows:

$1.25 a month, or $15.00 a year in 1937-1939.
$1.87 a month, or $22.50 a year in 1940-1942.
$2.50 a month, or $30.00 a year in 1943-1945.
$3.12 a month, or $37.50 a year in 1946-1948.
$3.75 a month, or $45.00 a year after 1948.

(The higher your pay the more you will be taxed.)

To this the employer must add an equal amount.

4—BEFORE the end of 1937 you will have to fill out a card to identify you and the government at Washington will assign you a worker's number by which YOU will be KNOWN as long as and wherever you are employed.

Under the so-called old age pension act in effect in Illinois, anyone 65 years of age or over is to receive $30 a month without being required to contribute a penny in taxes. Husband and wife together would receive $60.

BUT UNDER THE LAW, THE WORKING MAN WHO RETIRES AT 65 AFTER TWENTY YEARS OF TAX-PAYING WOULD RECEIVE BUT $8.88 A WEEK AND HIS WIFE NOTHING.

Governor Alfred M. Landon has promised, if elected, to work for the immediate repeal of this so-called security law and said so in unmistakable terms in Milwaukee, Wis., on September 26, 1936.

He declared: "To get a workable old age pension we must repeal the present compulsory insurance plan. The Republican party is pledged to do this. The Republican party will have nothing to do with any plan that involves prying into the personal working records of twenty-six million people."

Lest We Forget:

Sec. Wallace Foe Of Constitution

By BENJAMIN DECASSERES

Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, is the most original mind in the New Deal museum. He believes the less we have to eat the better off we are, and the more uncultivated land we have the nearer we are to Utopia.

Governor Alfred M. Landon in his speech at Albuquerque, New Mexico, told us in cold facts just what Mr. Wallace had achieved with his unconstitutional AAA:

"DURING THE LAST THREE AND A HALF YEARS," said Governor Landon, "ABOUT 5,000,000 ACRES OF WHEAT, 12,000,000 ACRES OF CORN, 13,000,000 ACRES OF COTTON AND 500,000 ACRES OF TOBACCO HAVE BEEN TAKEN OUT OF THE PRODUCTION UNDER THE NEW DEAL POLICIES.

"AND THE PRESIDENT'S SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE WOULD HAVE US CUT ANOTHER 50,000,000 ACRES!

"HOG PRODUCTION WAS REDUCED BY APPROXIMATELY 13,000,000 HEAD.

"SIMULTANEOUSLY THE IMPORTS OF COMPETING FARM PRODUCTS in 1935 WOULD HAVE REQUIRED A MINIMUM OF 20,000,000 ACRES TO PRODUCE THEM ON AMERICAN FARMS."

SOCIALISTICALLY INCLINED

Thus Secretary Wallace's AAA, together with Secretary Hull's "most-favored nation" treaties, has produced an "economy of scarcity" in America and an ABUNDANCE OF SHEKELS in the pockets of European and South American food producers.

Secretary Wallace is the greatest "plough-under" artist of all time, for he not only ploughed under and destroyed our corn, wheat and rye, but he has tried assiduously TO PLOUGH UNDER OUR CONSTITUTION, not only actually (as the Supreme Court notified him in its adverse AAA decision) but verbally as well in several books he has written, notably the one entitled "Whose Constitution?"

Up until the advent of the Socialistic New Deal the American people were under the delusion that the Constitution was a document that BELONGED TO ALL OF US.

But along comes Henry A. Wallace, infested with the virus of alien NO-CONSTITUTION doctrines, and calmly informs us that the Constitution should be used to create A "CO-OPERATIVE STATE," which is highbrow for a Socialistic state, if not a MARXIAN COMMUNIST STATE.

"MAKE AMERICA OVER"

As there is not a single word in the Constitution which justifies the creation of a revolutionary "co-operative state" in place of the [illegible] individualistic state which the Constitution DID create, Mr. Wallace has recourse to the term "general welfare."

The "general welfare" has been the excuse for every aggression against the individual by every autocrat from the Ptolemies to Stalin, Hitler and Mussolini.

Mr. Wallace practically warns the reader that he is going to display his mania for ploughing under in the very sub-title of his book, which is "An Inquiry Into the General Welfare."

He even in the following passage hints that, if necessary, the Constitution might be scrapped as a product of the horse-and-buggy age:

"We should eventually be prepared, if necessary, to work out in the spirit of Madison a MECHANISM which would embody the spirit of the age as successfully as the Constitution of 1787 mirrored the philosophy of the eighteenth century."

STALIN DISCIPLE

Secretary Wallace's ideas for "making America over" are somewhat disturbing in the light of the following paragraph from his book:

"We may hope that such action can be TAKEN AS BLOODLESSLY as the Constitution was enacted."

There is even no thought here of amending the Constitution, for he says that proposals to amend that document "MAY OFTEN BE NAIVE AND FUTILE."

As a matter of fact, Henry A. Wallace does not believe in the "American way"—the INDIVIDUAL, SELF-RELIANT way—at all, for he says in "The Search for an American Way" in Scribner's magazine:

"I AM INCLINED TO THINK THAT BY NATURE MOST MEN ARE A LITTLE BETTER ADAPTED TO THE CO-OPERATIVE FORM OF SOCIETY THAN TO THE COMPETITIVE."

That is precisely what Lenin and Stalin teach!

Mr. Wallace continues his ploughing under—now it is state rights and the Supreme Court in the following paragraph in his book:

"THE DOCTRINE OF STATE RIGHTS, NOW INVOKED BY THE SUPREME COURT, WAS A BARRIER TO PROGRESS EVEN IN 1787 AND WAS THE CAUSE OF TERRIBLE CONFLICT IN 1861. TODAY THE STATES MARK NO ECONOMIC BOUNDARIES THAT MAKE SENSE."

HITS SUPREME COURT

But the "economic boundaries" of the states cannot be wiped out without WIPING OUT THE POLITICAL BOUNDARIES ALSO and compounding them all in "ONE COMMON MASS," as John Marshall warned.

This has been the great stumbling block in the juggernaut of the New Deal and of Wallace's co-operative state—the fact that this country is the UNITED STATES and not a centralized tyranny.

The Supreme Court is condemned by Secretary Wallace because it "has disagreed in a number of instances with the position taken by the administration ON THE MATTER OF FEDERAL POWER."

In other words, if any of the coordinate branches of this Democracy disagrees with the rex or his satraps, let it be abolished!

Or if it cannot be abolished—here is the exact and incredible manner in which Mr. Wallace proposes to bring about his "co-operative state":

"The important thing is to elect men who will nominate the RIGHT MEN to the Supreme Court" (from Secretary Wallace's introduction to Irving Brant's "Storm Over the Constitution").

The "RIGHT MEN!" That is, pack the Supreme Court.

Thus, for nearly four years, there has been a ceaseless PLOUGHING UNDER of everything that has made America the unique country in the history of the world.

Business, self-reliance, the competitive system, our civil liberties, our foreign trade, the Constitution and the Supreme Court have been ploughed under, sabotaged, derided by an administration which has dedicated itself to "NEW IMPLEMENTS OF POWER" in the interest of a Socialistic state conceived in the minds of Wallace, Tugwell and Frankfurter.

"The way to recovery," said Governor Landon at Cleveland, "IS FOR THE GOVERNMENT TO STOP TRYING TO RUN THE LIVES OF 130,000,000 PEOPLE."

And the way to "STOP" the government is to put the ultimate veto of the people on the plough under deal on November 3.

"Freedom Is Threatened"

Beware of Deal Dictatorship in U. S., Professor Copeland Warns

By MELVIN T. COPELAND

Professor of Marketing at the Harvard Business School

This Presidential campaign, in my opinion, means more to the people of America than any campaign since 1860—when the freedom of the Negroes and the preservation of the union were at stake. Now the freedom of all the people is threatened. Public funds are being used to catch votes so as to give more dictatorial power to the President.

Mr. Roosevelt, I believe, is well-meaning, but we should not be too completely disarmed by his genial smile, his kind heart and his friendly voice.

I do not think for an instant that consciously he is seeking to become a dictator. Nevertheless, actually he has been heading in that direction ever since the summer of 1933.

Courageously, he faced a great emergency in March, 1933. He deserved and won the confidence and support of a large part of our people. He asked for great powers, and they were granted to him.

Then, quite unexpectedly, his success went to his head, a head shrewd politically but rather muddled on economic matters. He began to transform his plans for recovery into plans for revolutionary reform.

By means of vast sums of public money placed at his disposal, he was able to get grants of greater and greater power from Congress. Congressmen who wanted to obtain funds for the relief of people in their districts had to vote as Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Farley wished. If he were to be re-elected now, the same procedure would be followed during the next four years.

The Supreme Court fortunately had the courage to stand up against the undemocratic Roosevelt schemes of government control. And the Supreme Court, in my opinion, is the biggest single issue in this campaign.

Several judges on the Supreme Court are elderly men; several vacancies almost certainly will occur during the next four years. If Mr. Roosevelt were to be re-elected, with a Congress eating out of his hand, does anyone imagine that he would not fill vacancies on the Supreme bench with men who would approve his schemes? Then the last protection to American liberties would be gone. Congress and the Supreme Court would be under the President's thumb.

'People Would Pay'

The statement by James Roosevelt that his father plans to revive the NRA also is highly significant. With a remade Supreme Court, it coul dbe put across without obstacle, and bureaucrats in Washington soon would be regulating most of our business activities. Another step toward dictatorship.

Mr. Roosevelt promises that taxes are not to be raised, but his record of the last four years shows that many of his promises are not kept. His bureaucratic reform program is costly. Furthermore, if he were to be re-elected, lavish spending would continue, in order to control votes in Congress.

If taxes were not increased, the costs of the Roosevelt program would be paid by the mass of our people indirectly through higher prices for the goods that they buy—a higher cost of living.

Governor Landon is not a "super man" and he will make mistakes. But I believe that has common sense, that he really understands the needs and the hopes of us common people, that he is not merely a clever vote getter.

I believe that his word can be trusted and that he will not try to gain for himself vast powers which cannot safely be trusted to any one man. To support Mr. Landon in the great task that he will face in Washington, we also need to elect a Republican Senator and Republican Congressmen from Massachusetts.

Senator Hastings Finds:

Jewish Traders Redeem Soil

This is the third article of a series by U. S. Senator Daniel P. Hastings of Delaware, the third member of the Hearst Unofficial Senatorial Commission to report on the crisis in Palestine.

Senator Hastings is a distinguished jurist. While in Palestine he made a special study of the Jewish purchase of land from Arabs, and of the progress of Jewish agriculture.

By DANIEL O. HASTINGS
U. S. Senator From Delaware
(Copyright, 1936, American Newspapers, Inc.)

Perhaps the greatest miracle of the Jewish colonization of Palestine has been the transformation of small traders and intellectuals from Eastern Europe into successful farmers. These children of the Ghetto, who had been removed from agriculture for many centuries, not only changed their habits overnight, but changed the face of the Holy Land almost overnight.

No traveler in Palestine today can fail to be impressed by the large stretches of redeemed soil which had lain barren and arid for generations prior to the coming of the Jewish pioneer. Forests, groves, and orchards dot the countryside, and offer a striking contrast to those deserted tracts still awaiting the labor of rejuvenation.

"The most striking result in this sphere that has been achieved during the last few years has been in the valley of Esdraelon," reads the report of the high commissioner on the administration of Palestine.

"When I first saw it in 1920, it was a desolation. Four or five small and squalid Arab villages, long distances apart from one another, could be seen on the summits of low hills here and there. For the rest, the country was uninhabited.

"There was not a house, not a tree. Along a branch of the Hejaz railway an occasional train stopped at deserted stations. A great part of the soil was in the ownership of absentee Syrian landlords.

Land Transformed

"The River Kishon, which flows through the valley and the many springs which feed it from the hillsides, had been allowed to form a series of swamps and marshes, and, as a consequence, the country was infested with malaria."

Then the Jewish National Fund acquired about 51 square miles of the valley. Young pioneers descended into it, formed labor gangs, crushed rock, built roads, dug trenches, erected houses and schools and factories. Continues the report of the high commissioner:

"All of the swamps and marshes within the area that has been colonized have been drained, and cases of malaria are proportionately rare. An active trade in dairy produce has sprung up, mostly finding a market, by means of the railway, in Haifa.

"The whole aspect of the valley has been changed. The wooden huts of the villages, gradually giving place to red-roofed cottages, are dotted along the slopes; the plantations of rapidly growing eucalyptus trees begin to give a new character to the landscape.

"In the spring the fields of vegetables or of cereals cover many miles of the land, and what five years ago was little better than a wilderness is being transformed before our eyes into a smiling countryside."

This valley is now the most compact Jewish agricultural settlement in Palestine. In the last 15 years, the number of Jewish land colonies has grown from 45 to 173. In 1919, there were 10,500 Jews in rural communities; in 1935, there were 72,700.

Jewish Farms Best

Striking are the intensive farming methods introduced by the Jews in the country. The Jewish farmer produces more than twice as much wheat per acre as the Arab peasant, three times as much grapes, and the yield of milk of the Jewish dairy farmer per cow is actually seven times as great as that of the Arab.

The application of scientific farming by the Jewish settlers has brought agricultural machinery into Palestine for the first time in its history. The import of these modern farming implements has been growing rapidly in the last five years.

As compared with Palestine, the three neighboring Arab countries show a negligible use of agricultural machinery. Even Egypt, with its great cotton industry, imported in 1934 but 7.1 per cent per head of population of the Palestinian import of such machinery.

Jewish enterprise has made Palestine, within the space of a little more than a decade, into the second citrus exporting country in the world. The area under oranges and lemons has increased more than eight-fold between 1922 and 1935. The value of the exports of this commodity rose from $1,000,000 in 1921 to nearly $18,000,000 in 1935.

Nothing is as dramatic, however, in the story of agricultural progress of the Jew in Palestine as the discovery and development of the country's unknown or unused water resources. For centuries the Arabs squatted on the land without troubling to dig for water even in such places where a little effort could have brought it to the surface.

Water Found

The Jewish immigrants pioneered in this direction with remarkable zeal and perseverance, and tapped hidden water sources which miraculously expanded the seemingly limited arable area of the country. In the valley of Esdraelon alone, 70 borings were made, of which 34 were successful.

Water-boring machinery of the most modern type is now being imported into Palestine at an increasing rate by the Jews. Not only have many old wells been made to yield greater supplies, but in Galilee and Samaria and other parts of Palestine water was discovered in places where hardly anybody ever dreamed of finding it.

Although the Jews own but one-twentieth of all the land in Palestine, the transformation which they wrought in its primitive agriculture within a decade and a half can be felt and seen from one end of the country to the other. That it has been accomplished by a people whose agricultural tradition goes back 2000 years is a revelation of the love and sacrifice which they brought to the land of their ancestors.

Stork Derby Tieup Threatened by Contestant

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 26 (INS)—Mrs. Grace Bagnato, contender in the Millar Stork Derby, threatened today to tie up the $770,000 prize with injunctions.

This action was planned after Mrs. Bagnato's counsel discovered that the birth of two of her children had not been registered as requested under the terms of the will of Charles Vance Millar, Toronto lawyer.

She claims to have given birth to nine children in the last decade and expects another before the end of the race on October 31.

This would give her 10 "eligibles" and she believes a tie for first place. Millar left the residue of his estate to the Toronto mother who gave birth to the greatest number of children in the 10 years following his death.

Mrs. Bagnato is obtaining statements from doctors, priests and hospitals to support her claims.

JEWISH DRIVE SUCCESS

Fund Is Half Way to Goal

With their $550,000 goal already more than half-subscribed, workers in the 1936-1937 campaign of the Associated Jewish Philanthropies will hold noonday meetings at their Federal street headquarters to make daily reports.

A total of $321,000 for the campaign was pledged at Hotel Statler at the annual community dinner by 1275 diners, 200 more than had made reservations in any previous year for the event.

The response in pledges to the appeal for funds to help in maintaining 16 Jewish welfare and relief agencies came after speakers discussed the conditions existing here and abroad and urged greater service on the part of Boston's Jewry.

MAKES PLEA

Louis E. Kirstein, president of the Associated Jewish Philanthropies, who was given an ovation by the assemblage for his outstanding leadership in communal work during the depression years, declared the campaign was a challenge to business men.

He pointed out that business was now showing an upward swing but that the benefits of recovery have not yet percolated down to the masses. It was therefore to be expected, he declared, that business men would make substantial increases in their subscriptions.

He discussed conditions which face Jews in foreign countries and declared that the campaign should be accounted by Jews here as an opportunity and privilege to demonstrate their gratitude for the opportunities which America has afforded them.

Later today, Mr. Kirstein, also a member of the Plan and Scope Committee of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee's 1936 national campaign, announced that twice the sum collected last year already has been raised in the current drive.

He said $2,374,062 had been raised in 937 communities in the United States and Canada and that there were still other large cities to be heard from.

RABBI SPEAKS

Rabbi Edward L. Israel, of Baltimore, principal speaker of the evening, declared that the charitable tradition has always been outstanding in Jewish life.

He said it was part of the gathering's responsibility as Jews and Americans to set an outstanding example of that tradition in the present campaign.

Barber Thief Goes Honest by Mail

What started out this morning as apparently a clear case of barbershop burglary gathered some elements of mystery about it this afternoon and left a Cambridge barber and Cambridge police all in a dither.

Antonio Monteiro, of Arlington, who conducts a one-man tonsorial establishment in Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, found the shop cleared of practically everything except his chair and some towels when he opened up today.

Missing, he told police, were one electric hairclipper, four combs, one hairbrush, one electric vibrator, five razors and a pair of scissors. Luckily, he explained, he had left no cash around over the week-end.

About the middle of the afternoon, Monteiro dashed over to police to say that he had just received a special delivery package from Boston. In it were the electric hairclipper, four combs, one brush and three razors.

Monteiro said items missing were valued at $19.75 and would the police kindly get going.

JAIL 'BELGIAN HITLER'; CRUSH REVOLT PLOT

Brussels, Belgium, Oct. 26 (AP)—Still defiant after a night in jail, Leon Degrelle, leader of the Belgian Rexists and so-called "Hitler of Belgium," announced today he would carry out his threatened "march on Brussels" with 150,000 followers.

Degrelle was released from the central police station early today following a series of clashes between Fascist advocates and police yesterday, the 22d anniversary of the World War battle of Yser.

"My motive," Degrelle said, "was to prove to the nation that ex-soldiers are behind the Rexists."

Degrelle's threat to lead his followers into Brussels to overthrow the government caused the cabinet to order 4000 gendarmes with rifles over their shoulders and wearing extra cartridge belts to patrol the city and all roads leading into it.

Automobiles entering the city were searched and the names of travelers living more than six miles from the city were listed. No street cars ran in the center of the city, while police with clubs kept the crowds moving.

Machine guns were posted at strategic points, ready for action.

All except half a dozen of the several hundred arrested yesterday were released.

Degrelle himself will be tried on a minor charge of breaking police rules.

Scores of persons were hurt and at least one man shot during the Sunday disorders, which followed a review by King Leopold of veterans of the Yser battle.

Spanish Prince Says:

Reds Ruthless in Nuns' Murder

mob it turned loose to oppress my people and destroy my country.

It is a horror-filled story of the shooting and crucifying of priests, of mass desecration of nuns, of savagery toward all women in general.

The desecration by the reds of innocent womankind was shockingly proven to us just before our charge on Irun, when Madrid was beginning to shake with fear of our power.

PREACHES MASSACRE

They chose La Passionaria, the "Passion Flower" of Spain's red terror, to broadcast nightly a speech of bloody "inspiration" to Irun's defenders. It is impossible to translate literally her ghastly command because it is so horrible. She said, in effect:

"Destroy the classes who oppose us. Kill them without pity or remorse.

"Desecrate the women of the aristocrats and middle classes. Leave none of them alive or if you choose that they live make certain that they will never again bear children like themselves. Make the rivers run gloriously with their blood."

SEES ATROCITY

The result is unforgetable. I've had four years in the World war and at 58 am considered an experienced soldier. But soon after the fall of Irun I witnessed the remains of an atrocious mass crime, the like of which has not been witnessed since the days of barbaric slavery—if then.

We were driving the radicals before us in the fight to reach and take San Sebastian. Approaching a tiny hamlet five miles from our objective, my regiment climbed ahead of me to the top of a hill where there nestled the beautiful convent of Santa Maria Silveia.

When I reached the cluster of aged buildings, I noticed that most of my men had gathered in the large inner yards. They stood rooted to the earth, cursing, shouting oaths in chorus and shaking their fists in the direction of San Sebastian, then still controlled by the Reds.

I investigated.

WORK OF FIENDS

One group stood hatless around a body lying nearly naked in the yard. Only by the ripped, blood-stained cloth of her order was I able to recognize that the shattered corpse, stabbed and disemboweled, was the body of the convent's mother superior.

I stood, profoundly stricken, and bared my head, too. After a moment of silent prayer, I ordered her body buried where it lay.

Then I pushed my way through a second and larger crowd of muttering soldiers gathered nearer the convent building.

The encircled a scene indescribably fiendish—a scene which etched itself so deeply in the minds of myself and my men that we shall never forget it.

There under the smouldering embers of a huge bonfire lay the scorched dead bodies of at least 100 young nuns and 300 girl students of the convent.

They too, had been stabbed and attacked and horribly mutilated.

Half dead from their ragged wounds, they had been tossed into the fire. On top of them the retreating Communists had thrown the convent furniture to make the gory pyre burn better.

I thought all of them were dead until one of our soldiers saluted me and asked permission to "finish" a little girl, not more than 16 years old, who lay writhing under a burning desk on the other side of the pyre.

As I moved close to her, she reached out a little hand, grasped the bottom of my campaign trousers and whispered "Salvador... Salvador..." she died a few minutes later and not a single nun or girl was saved.

REVENGE IS VOWED

We buried them all and went on toward San Sebastian, each of us solemnly sworn again to drive the Red terror, responsible for such atrocities from Spain, to fight them with our last breaths and to bring Spain back to its former glory as a country of honor.

"The crime of Santa Maria Silveia" was not the first such horror I encountered in the campaign. It was not the last.

A few miles further toward San Sebastian near the town of Renteria the cowardly Reds, seeing their defeat was inevitable, placed hundreds of prisoners chained to each other in their front lines. We dared not shoot for fear we might be killing a brother or sister placed before us as a human barrier of hostages.

HITLER, DUCE SIGN ACCORD

By The Associated Press

Rome, Oct. 26—Premier Mussolini faced Europe today arm-in-arm with Reichsfuehrer Hitler of Germany.

An Italo-German agreement by which the two countries will collaborate on major problems was disclosed in a communique announcing the conclusion of conversation with Hitler and Konstantin von Neurath, German foreign minister, by an Italian mission headed by Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

The communique gave plain warning the two totalitarian nations had submerged their differences and would unify their policies to confront what they regard as common threats to their security and ambitions.

Drafted after Hitler received Ciano at his Bavarian estate yesterday, the announcement numerated six points on which agreement had been reached.

They were: The Locarno pact, the League of Nations, the Spanish civil war, the Danubian basin, including Austria, bilateral economic co-operation and a united front against Communism.

Details were withheld, but the statement did not imply any formal alliance or treaty.

2 MEN CHARGED WITH MURDERS

Murder charges were placed today against two men, following the deaths of a Haverhill woman and a Chelsea man.

Edward Batchelder, 67, retired plumber of Bradford, was alleged to have beaten to death his crippled wife, Anna, 66. Batchelder, police said, was a former patient at Danvers State Hospital.

Batchelder was ordered held for the grand jury on a murder charge, and Judge Daniel Cavan also ordered an immediate mental examination.

Eli Bonder, 48, Chelsea, was charged with murdering with the blunt side of an axe his fellow-lodger, Gregory Krivdick, 45, as the climax to a drinking party. Wasil Lefko, 56, who accused Bonder of attacking Krivdick, was held as a material witness.

FALLS 60 FEET INTO SHIP HOLD

Work on the Dollar liner President Monroe at Pier 44, Charlestown, was halted for a half hour today as one of the ship's huge cargo derricks was commandeered to hoist an injured fireman 60 feet from the boiler room deck to the wharf.

The injured man, John Maher, 52, of Ocean View, Va., fell from a boiler room ladder after touching a steam pipe. Rushed to the Haymarket Relief Hospital, Maher was found to have suffered a fracture of the skull. His name was placed on the danger list.

RUSSIAN ARMY READY TO SAIL FOR SPAIN

BULLETINS

Lisbon, Portugal, Oct. 26 (AP)—The Fascist Spanish government at Burgos announced today Madrid had been completely isolated from the rest of Spain and would fall to the insurgent armies "within three to ten days."

Istanbul, Oct. 26 (INS)—Fifteen Soviet steamers loaded with war materials passed through the Bosborus last week, presumably bound for Spanish ports, it was learned from a reliable source today.

Lisbon, Portugal, Oct. 26 (AP)—Refugees from the Spanish war declared today Catalonian authorities were awaiting the arrival of 20,000 Russian volunteers.

Portuguese citizens, arriving from Barcelona, Spain, said the Soviet brigades were ready to embark from Black Sea ports and were expected shortly to join the Catalonian forces against the Spanish Fascists.

Unconfirmed reports in Paris said Russia had requested use of French ports should Moscow decide to intervene actively in the Spanish civil war. The newspaper Echo de Paris said the Soviet was believed to want "free disposal to French ports for their war fleet and merchant fleet."

Yvon Delbos, French foreign minister, the reports said, telephoned the British foreign office in London and opposed the rumored request.

Turkish authorities at Istanbul said they had received no Russian requests for authorization to send the Soviet fleet into the Mediterranean through the Dardanelles.

Other Portuguese returning from Spain said two Russian freighters unloaded tanks, aircraft and other munitions at Alicante several days ago.

Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, Spanish insurgent commander, broadcasting today from Seville, said Madrid government losses were 20,000 killed and 50,000 wounded since the end of August.

Europe Unites to Balk Red Russia's War Plot

By KINGSBURY SMITH

London, Oct. 26 (INS)—All western Europe today lined up against Russia to prevent a war growing out of intervention in Spain as the 27-power neutrality commission, in a verbal ultimatum, called upon Moscow to disclose its real intentions regarding aiding Madrid, or quit the committee.

The powers impatiently awaited the Soviet's reply to demands made on Ambassador Ivan Maisky to state exactly what he meant when he said the Soviet was free to aid Leftist Spain as much as "other countries" were helping the rebels.

Unless the Soviet speedily clarify this statement, the danger persists that Italy will walk out of the non-intervention committee and it will disband.

A series of diplomatic events served to unite western Europe in a solid front against Moscow.

Even France, ally of the U. S. S. R., has rejected, according to reports, a Soviet request for the use of French ports for Soviet naval and commercial fleets with troops and supplies for the Madrid Reds.

Britain has refused to consider the Soviet demand for Anglo-French control of Portuguese ports. On the other hand, Britain has revived her suggestion of a neutral committee to guard Spanish ports—which would leave the Portuguese door open for aid to the rebels, and close Loyalist sources.

Red Lines Hold on Two Fronts; Americans Freed

Madrid, Oct. 26 (INS)—Slashing their way up the Hagus river to menace the capital from a new sector, rebel troops today occupied the heights overlooking Aranjuez and then, turning northward along the Madrid railroad, advanced on Ciempozuelos.

West and northwest of Madrid, however, the insurgents met a furious counter-attack by numerically superior forces, holding up the rebel advance east of Navalcarnero, and hurling back the rebel lines several miles in the vicinity of Navalperal.

Among the prisoners thus freed was Henry Tilton Gorrell of Washington, D. C., an American news correspondent and James Minifie, a Canadian correspondent for a New York newspaper.

POLICE PRESS SEARCH FOR LYONS

police took new steps to widen the search for John A. Lyons, Back Bay war veteran, who Bartolini says he left in Mrs. Asquith's company at her Weymouth cottage on the evening of September 19, when she was believed murdered.

Fingerprints and Bertillon measurements of Lyons were wired to state police headquarters in 26 states.

In addition to the wires to state police, a new appeal for co-operation of police in port cities on the Atlantic seaboard in the search for Lyons was issued by Captain Stokes.

STUMBLING BLOCK

Lyons' disappearance remained the stumbling block in the way of solution of the three weeks' old mystery and steps taken to widen the search for him indicated detectives are not in possession of sufficient evidence to prove the belief of many that he, too, was murdered.

One outstanding mark by which police hope to identify Lyons—dead or alive—is a depressed scar one inch long and a half inch wide on the right side of his neck.

For the victim's torso and arms, Diver Fred Wallace today continued his search of the bottom of Fort Point channel where, last Friday, the head was found. The police boat Watchman and police crews in three rowboats also participated in this search.

FISHERMAN GIVES CLUE

New clue in the torso search was the story of Anthony Wetzonio of D street, South Boston, a smelt fisherman, who told police that early on a Tuesday morning in late September he saw a square bundle floating in the channel while he was fishing from Congress street bridge.

Two days later, he said, he saw it again and a man who paused to ask him how the fishing was aroused his suspicions by queer actions. He said he later saw this same man about 3 o'clock on Friday morning near a filling station close to the bridge and that he drove away in a car. This man, Wetzonio said, he might be able to identify.

Near Governors Island where the legs were found, the police boat Edwin U. Curtis, renewed the hunt.

Weymouth police continued their search in the vicinity of the Whitman Pond cottage.

Detectives theorized that if Lyons was also killed and his body hidden to give the impression he fled, the slayer would have taken more pains in the disposal of the veteran's body than in that of the widow.

FORCE DEWING HAND

Meanwhile the hand of District Attorney Edmund R. Dewing was being forced by Bartolini.

"John Doe," named in the murder warrant, may be identified today at the hearing before Judge McLellan.

In behalf of the Quincy man Attorneys George Lourie and Edward R. Zottoli prepared to argue two federal court petitions.

They seek a writ of habeas corpus, directing Bartolini's unconditional release. And they seek a temporary order from the court, authorizing Bartolini to tell his own story of "abuse and persecution" which he claims to have suffered at the hands of police.

SCIENTISTS SMARTER THAN CRIMINALS

By MELVIN PURVIS

CHAPTER IX

A service like the Federal Bureau of Investigation should not be so restricted in the number of its men. It is my opinion, based on my experience with the Service, that it should never have fewer than fifteen hundred Special Agents actually operating in the field. Special Agents are not super-humans; their physical strength is ordinarily not more than that of the average citizen; their desires are similar to those of average people—they desire to have their homes, to rear their children; they need a vacation at least occasionally. The increased number of men would bring about such a result.

MORE THAN A HUNDRED MEN WERE BURNED TO DEATH AND IT WAS BELIEVED THAT ONE OF THEM WAS A CERTAIN ELMER WHITING

The entrant's salary in the Federal Bureau of Investigation, when I entered the service, was $2700 a year with a per diem of four dollars for expenses, in lieu of actual subsistence, when absent from headquarters.

The entrant's salary, by the Welch Act, was later raised to $2900 per annum and the per diem was later raised to six dollars. Then someone felt an economic urge in governmental expenses and cut the six dollars down to five dollars per diem for living expenses when absent from headquarters.

Melvin Purvis

Later, the entrant's salary was raised to $3200 a year. The Special Agent operating in the field can receive promotions, but even when he is promoted to the office of Special Agent in Charge he seldom receives more than $5800 per year.

The Special Agent is expected to stay in reputable hotels and to dress decently. No man engaged on important business of the government can live on five or even six dollars per day. Out of this five dollars per diem when absent from headquarters, the Special Agent must pay his hotel bill, his food bill, his laundry, and all other items of subsistence.

Must Pay Taxes

Out of his own pocket he must pay Pullman porters, Red Caps, and all other porter fees for his baggage. The Special Agent is not responsible for the growth of the tip system in the United States, yet a ruling by the office of then Comptroller General McCarl has prevented the Special Agent from receiving any reimbursement for these expenses for tips. Actually this results in the Special Agent, and other employes of the government, paying a part of the expenses of the government.

The Special Agent is not exempt from income taxes because he is a Federal employe, as many people have erroneously believed. He pays his taxes like every other citizen, and there is no reason for his not being reimbursed for his actual expenses when at work in the field.

Out of the salaries mentioned and the per diem expenses, the Special Agent must maintain his home at headquarters and also maintain himself while absent therefrom. It is obvious that both the salary and the allowed per diem expense are too small. The Federal Bureau of Investigation has been able to secure the services of exceptionally good men. But every natural man is always seeking to better his conditions, and if he can better them by leaving the Service for which he has been so thoroughly trained, undoubtedly he will do so. Not only should the entrant's salary be raised, but the Special Agent operating in the field should have a higher goal to look forward to.

Science Aids

From an incongruous maze the Federal Bureau of Investigation has been built into one of the most effective crime combatting organizations ever known. Aside from the actual and practical investigative work performed, it maintains the largest current collection of criminal fingerprint histories in the world.

Science has furnished incalculable aid in police work, and at the Crime Laboratory at Washington all scientific aids are capitalized. There are microscopes handy, and the experts are competent to tell whether an old brown stain was made by coffee or blood, and whether a certain shred of wool found at the scene of a crime was apart of a Harris tweed suit, or a skein from a lady's knitting. Samples are there of every known automobile tread, and the experts can find out in very short order the company which manufactured anything from wall paper to rubber rain coats, and what their outlets are. These facts are usually important.

Recently, the department started a collection of bullets used in the commission of crimes. Such a collection will beyond any doubt become of outstanding value in the future. Ballistic experts are able to tell whether two spent bullets were fired from the same gun. The comparison microscope makes it possible. Hoodlums of the Dillinger and Miller stripe are always on the move. Their bullets will tell the story of their crimes, for the riflings of gun barrels never lie.

Secret writings with invisible ink and counterfeits are exposed by the ultra violet ray. Bombs or other explosives have been found in innocent-looking packages by the use of the X-ray. A criminal or a suspect writes a letter; he tears the sheet from the pad of paper. The oblique ray brings to light the indentations on the second or subsequent sheets of the pad of paper, and information is thereby gained to aid in the solution of a crime.

Kidnaper Trap

By the use of a process known as moulage parts of the anatomy of a person may be reproduced or a replica of any article may be manufactured. A specially prepared hot wax is used in these moldings, although plaster of Paris has been found to be successful in preserving footprints for use in trials of criminals.

Analine dye, sprinkled inside a dummy package for a kidnaper or extortioner to pick up at a designated point, will cause his hands to turn black where the powder touches. It does not wash off quickly or easily and sometimes several weeks are required for it to wear off. The kidnaper is harassed and sometimes he can even be identified and caught by this dodge.

Handwriting experts are there to make scientific comparisons of the peculiarities in handwritings, and a collection of every kind of type used in typewriters is maintained for the use of the experts in examining suspected documents and extortion letters. Samples of every kind of water-marked paper manufactured in this country are kept as an aid to the Special Agent in his endeavors to locate the place where the paper was sold.

Outwits Crime

Previously the Special Agent could be issued a revolver only in a special case or where his life might be in danger and permission from his Special Agent in Charge was always necessary.* Now each man is issued a gun, of the type he prefers, and each Field Office is equipped with modern weapons including the Colt Monitor rifle which fires with machine-gun rapidity, Thompson sub-machine-gun, rifles, pistols, tear-gas equipment, bullet-proof vests, and shields. Each Field Office now has its own modern automobiles.

There are many things which science can do which would have astonished the old-time outlaw. The criminal mind is clever, but the scientific mind is always its superior. The criminal discovered that he could efface motor numbers on automobiles, and indentifying numbers on guns. The scientists discovered that by a certain treatment of metal with acid, he could bring out the original numbers which had been effaced. In this era the car thief who effaces a motor number fools no one in the Federal Bureau of Investigation; and the gangster who files off the figures on his pistol can never really conceal the source of his artillery supply. Chemistry is too sure.

When I entered the Government service, matters were considerably less complicated than they became during my later years in the service. Special Agents then were empowered to investigate only a limited number of Federal offenses. The drive for centralization of fingerprints in Washington, instituted by the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, had begun in 1924. The importance of the Identification Unit cannot be over-emphasized. Formerly, there was an exchange of fingerprint records only among a limited number of city police departments. New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Detroit, Los Angeles, San Francisco and other large municipalities customarily made such an exchange; but police of smaller cities, the sheriffs and town marshals had neither the money nor the facilities for real co-operation. Fingerprint identification was painfully inefficient because records were incomplete.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation changed all that. Through a gradual and difficult educational process, it finally prevailed upon local agencies throughout the nation to send fingerprints for filing in the Washington repository. The value of the Department of Justice fingerprint collection, now the largest in the world, is so obvious that it may surprise the average reader to learn that as recently as 1929 and 1930, many of the larger cities—including New York, Philadelphia and Washington, D. C.—cooperated only in a meager way. I am familiar with the situation, because I served for a time as head of the Identification Unit.

Print Weapon

Throughout history various modes of identification have been used but fingerprints have given to civilization the most positive and valuable means of identification. There is nothing novel in the use of fingerprints as an infallible means of identification. We find that hundreds of years ago the people of China attached their fingerprints to important documents undoubtedly for the purpose of contract or signature. Carved on a cliff in Nova Scotia is a drawing of a hand, apparently the work of an Indian. This hand discloses the ridges of a fingerprint.

Fingerprints have become one of the potent weapons in the hands of the law enforcement official. In recent years identification by fingerprints has become an almost universal practice. Important also is the fact that courts have to recognize fingerprint evidence as valuable and admissible.

Today a police chief or sheriff may send fingerprints to Washington and learn immediately by letter or telegram whether or not he is holding a man with a criminal record. As a matter of fact, because of the increasing exchange of fingerprints among nations, he may even find that he has arrested a man wanted by the police of, say, such a distant place as South Africa, New Zealand, or the Dutch East Indies.

The general public is too familiar with the amazing results achieved by fingerprint identification to warrant any recital here of corroborative detail. There is one incident, however, that I cannot resist telling: There was a calamitous fire at the Ohio State Penitentiary during 1930. More than a hundred men were burned to death, and it was believed that one of them was a certain Elmer Whiting. In September of 1932 a man named Jerry Coburn was arrested at Mishawaka, Indiana. His fingerprints arrived in Washington. There it was discovered that they matched precisely with those of Elmer Whiting, the unfortunate who supposedly had died in the Columbus holocaust. Then the truth came out: Whiting had escaped in the confusion and excitement which accompanied the fire; for two years he had been free. He was returned to the penitentiary to finish his term.

Special agents were authorized to carry guns by the 73rd Congress; this Act was approved by the President on June 18, 1934. The Act not only gave the director and inspectors and Special agents of the Bureau that authority, but it gave them also the power to arrest.

Presenting the phenomenal facts about GULFPRIDE

THE WORLD'S FINEST MOTOR OIL

THE facts on this page sound hard to believe. But here is the reason why GULFPRIDE—and only GULFPRIDE—can accomplish such results . . .

Gulf begins with selected Pennsylvania crude, refines it to a motor oil that equals the best—then further refines it by the exclusive Alchlor process.

Only GULFPRIDE is made by this process—result of 15 years' research—the same scientific research that has made every Gulf product a leader.

Read the facts below. Then drain your dirty summer-worn oil and refill with GULFPRIDE now. At all Gulf dealers.

AN AMAZING TEST. Bottle No. 1 shows a mixture of 6 famous Pennsylvania motor oils. Bottle No. 2 shows them after being put through the Alchlor process. Bottle No. 3 shows the 20% waste removed from these already highly-refined oils by the Alchlor process. This process starts where others stop! That's why GULFPRIDE is the world's finest motor oil.

(Left)
TOPS IN THE AIR—8 out of the 11 winners in last year's National Air Races used GULFPRIDE OIL, the identical oil you can buy for your car at any Gulf dealer. This "aviator's oil" will take you farther before you need to add a quart than any other oil you ever used!

BEWARE WINTER! Better not let cold weather catch you with sluggish summer oil in the crankcase. Be prepared with WINTER GULFPRIDE. This oil beats on every point the winter oil specifications set up by the U. S. Navy. It flows freely below zero. Starts quickly. Saves your motor and battery. Refill now!

3. The contest is open to any bona fide resident of New England except employes of the Boston American, theatres and motion picture companies listed in this contest, and their families. It costs nothing to play this game. No Entry Fees. No Subscriptions to Get. No Money to Pay.

4. Below each picture must be written or printed the title of the motion picture and the name of three players appearing in it selected from the list of names printed with each cartoon.

5. In all 72 cartoons will be printed—one each publication day for 12 weeks. Cartoons are to be submitted only in complete groups of 72. Hold them until you have the 72. Then send or bring them to Movie Title & Identity Editor, Boston American, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, Mass., P. O. Box 1099. Be sure to write your name and address clearly on your entry. All entries must be in Boston American office by midnight, Wednesday, January 27, or postmarked not later than January 27, midnight. It is understood that all entries in this test are to become the property of the Boston Evening American. No entries will be returned. Each entry must be accompanied by some appropriate slogan of not more than ten words suitable for publicizing the moving picture industry. For example: "Movies, the Nation's Favorite Recreation" or "Movies, they amuse and educate." Only ONE slogan can be submitted with each complete entry of 72 cartoons. A special blank, on which your slogan may be written, will appear with the last cartoon in the set, number 72.

6. Each entry should be sent by first class mail—postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the post office department. Contestants may send in as many sets as they wish but no contestant shall be entitled to more than one prize and not more than one prize will be awarded in a family.

7. Accuracy will count. Neatness will count. No elaborate sets are necessary. Simplicity is best.

8. You need not purchase the Boston American to compete. You may copy or trace the cartoons from the originals in the Boston American and assemble the set of pictures from the copies you have made. Copies of the Boston American may be examined at Boston American offices or public libraries free of charge.

9. The judges will be a committee appointed by the Boston American. Their decision will be final. In the event of a tie by two or more contestants for any position in the list of winners, the prize or prizes next in order will be combined in a lump sum and then evenly distributed among those tying.

The entry of a participant is an acknowledgement and complete acceptance of all rules, governing this test made now or at any time at the discretion of the judges.

Gary Cooper to Star In 'Marco Polo'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service
(Copyright, 1936, by Universal Service)

Los Angeles, Oct. 26—Interesting news that Gary Cooper will play "Marco Polo" so long dreamed of by Douglas Fairbanks as movie material. This announcement will be made today with the word that Fairbanks and Samuel Goldwyn are planning a $1,500,000 combination to finance the colorful adventures of Marco Polo.

It is also interesting gossip that Mrs. Fairbanks, who was the former Lady Sylvia Ashley, well-known London actress, will make her screen debut opposite Cooper. The Fairbankses, accompanied by Benita Hume, left here today for New York where Douglas will discuss with Cooper his plans for making the authentic exteriors in China. Then he will proceed to London for a conference with Captain Pogson, co-author with Fairbanks on the original Marco Polo story. This will be Fairbanks' first producing venture in which he, himself, has not been a star. Basil Rathbone will also be contacted in London for an important supporting role.

I have been cogitating on who should be starred in "White Banners" for Warner Brothers. Beulah Bondi, Edna May Oliver or Aline MacMahon would all qualify, so you can see that the housekeeper who is the star of the Lloyd C. Douglas book has to be an actress who isn't a youthful heroine. Hal Wallis, just before he took the train for New York to meet Jack Warner, signed a check for the film rights to "White Banners." Having filmed "Green Light," Warners were naturally anxious to get this latest Douglas novel which some people think even better than his "Magnificent Obsession" or "Green Light."

Maybe it sounds funny, but anyway, Mae West is going to Chicago for the opening of "Go West, Young Man," her latest, and many believe, her best picture. The trip is a combination business and pleasure jaunt for the hard-working star who hasn't been away from Hollywood in four years. Is it possible that the beginning of the West vogue was so long ago? It seems no more than a couple of years that Mae was setting a hectic cinema pace with her wisecracking portrayals and now all her friends are hoping that this new picture, adapted from Gladys George's stage hit, "Personal Appearance" will put the indomitable West back close to the top again.

Chatter in Hollywood: Hear tell that Paulette Goddard didn't do so well in New York. She was interviewed and interviewed and her classic remark, "I never discuss my private affairs," became a catchline for all New York newspaper reporters. Paulette has also gone political and the New York Times carries an interview with her on politics that is even funnier than her matrimonial static. Really Charlie Chaplin ought to give Paulette some good advice before he turns her loose in the big town where her remarks to the reporters are even funnier than Charlie's comedies.

Snapshots of Hollywood

NORMA SHEARER continues to be quite ill and daily alarms her physicians by her temperature which is entirely too high; LUISE RAINER nursing an injured knee suffered while making retakes for "The Good Earth"; DAVID NIVEN, now in North Carolina, will meet MERLE OBERON in New York; ELAINE BARRIE'S movie contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer was quietly dropped a few weeks ago—maybe that's the reason for JOHN BARRYMORE'S return to health and rejuvenated appearance; VIRGINIA BRUCE traveling to St. Moritz next month for a white Christmas. BABY SUSAN ANN GILBERT goes along with her; the PAT O'BRIEN addition, PATRICK SHAUGHAN, christened with MRS. JOE E. BROWN as Godmother and WALTER CATLETT as Godfather; ALEX, back at Sardi's as maitre de hotel after a long siege of illness, preparing crepes suzettes for the PAUL MUNIS; MIRIAM HOPKINS dining with AUSTIN PARKER; ROBERT TAYLOR by his lonesome at a cafe; CARY GRANT ditto; BARBARA STANWYCK was rehearsing for the radio, but where was CARY'S heart? JAY BRENNAN of SAVOY and BRENNAN, one of our greatest wits, in town with some grand radio sketches. That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW: Outlanders are arriving every day wearing red fingernails. These are outmoded . . . Restore yours to natural this California trip if you are planning on mingling with the glamour gals . . . Janet Gaynor shines in "Ladies in Love," her role taking her out of the calicos and ginghams that made her famous . . . David Wark Griffith dances every dance at the Trocadero, and with his bride. She was Evelyn Baldwin of New York, 26, when they were married. Griffith was 56 . . . Retakes are being made on "Maid of Salem." Many of the mob scenes, shot the same day, show the male extras wearing white shoes. White shoes weren't worn in Salem in 1692 . . . An earlier retake became necessary when the "rushes" showed that Louise Dresser was wearing a wedding ring . . . They didn't wear wedding rings either in Salem in 1692 . . . The parsons called a wedding ring "a circle for the devil to dance in" . . . And one screen parson in the "fillum" decries the gay bonnet worn by Claudette Colbert, a blue beauty of a bonnet with ribbons and frills, by branding any girl who'd wear such a hat as "the very gizzard of a trifle, the epitome of nothing" . . . Tyrone Power, Jr., who acted this summer at the Cape Playhouse, becomes an important picture personality through his performance in "Lloyds of London," not shown yet . . . He is very friendly with Sonja Henie . . . Ross Alexander becomes a real star as a result of his new one, "Here Comes Carter" . . .

GEORGE HOLLAND

Something in a Name:

With the city absorbed in politics, a new piece of political fun by Dr. Charles F. Vallender, Jr., of Newton, found a ready audience at the Somerset's Balinese Room. The doctor passed out slips of paper with the name "Franklin Delano Roosevelt" written across them to several tables of his mates of the social register . . . "Make a Republican campaign slogan out of the name," was the challenge . . . To save time, by fitting the letters in a different pattern, this sentence can be achieved: "Vote for Landon 'ere all sink." One Democrat quibbled about the apostrophe.

Once Over Lightly:

Ethel Barrymore, persisting in her announced retirement from the stage, has become a teacher for a school of acting . . . New tuxedos for the Hudson-De Lange band, which played the swanky Crimson-Green Ball at the Somerset, arrived from New York just in time . . . Had the shipment been an hour later, the dancers would have been treated to the unusual sight of 12 musicians playing a fall function in straw hats and doeskin suits . . . Phoney palm trees, to lend atmosphere, had been procured . . . Marie Brown and Jean Casto, feminine leads in "Boy Meets Girl," had their pictures taken with the Shamrocks' Soar before the game. The former Providence College star suffered his first injury of the season soon after. But he'll attend the play tonight with his teammates . . . Hervey Allen, author of "Anthony Adverse," is alive. One of those rumors placed him out of the earthly picture. He is busy with a new book, probably up to the 1500th page.

Tiger for the Team:

A cheery note in the morning news comes in the form of the Globe headline: "Harvard Improving After Each Defeat."

In the Bright-Light Sector:

Larry Thornton comes back to the Mayfair tonight. He stayed six months by demand on his last visit . . . Chester Hale, the dance director, is in town. One of the best known of the Broadway heel-and-toe professors, Hale will stage the new Brown Derby shows . . . What marks something new in the entertainment business is the Hale-Brown Derby tie-up with the New York Loew office . . . New acts will be given first showings at the Boston night club. Hitherto they have been previewed for audience reaction in suburban theaters . . . For Harvard-Princeton night, which coincidentally this year is also Halloween, an attempt will be made to induce the goers-out to make it a two-night celebration, Friday and Saturday . . . Saturday, lately, is a sell-out all over town . . . Records were broken Saturday past . . . The Copley Square, trying perhaps to prove the plausibility of nursing a champagne appetite on a beer income, found its "champagne dinner" policy a Saturday night hit. The charge is $3.00 for one, $2.75 a person where the party is plural . . . A $4.00 minimum in several places found the celebrants willing and eager to play . . . In the Hotel Ten Eyck at Albany and the Hotel Onandaga in Syracuse, Tom Maren will direct the entertainment, and route the shows created for the Bradford Penthouse in each of those places . . . Three weeks in each city, with "Boots" McKenna staging the dances, is the scheme . . . The New York version of Boston's The Den opens formally tonight. It is the most pretentious restaurant featuring only Chinese food in New York, and is adjacent to the Alvin Theater, West 52nd street . . . Two blocks east, the block between Fifth and Sixth avenues, has 25 night spots now . . . Billy Reed, currently master of ceremonies at Leon and Eddie's, is opening the newest La Rhumba . . . Neither Leon nor Eddie approve . . . It's a great business, this catering to the appetites. But listed under "Bankruptcy," one finds in a New York paper the name of Conrad Immerman . . . "Formerly of Connie's Inn," the listing reads . . . With assets of $250, Connie's liabilities are given as $13,659 . . . "Connie's Inn" was one of the most "successful" spots in Gotham.

Looks As If Two Boys Met the Girl

ROY ROBERTS MARIE BROWN OWEN MARTIN

"Boy Meets Girl" continues to be the attraction at the Plymouth where it opens its fourth week tonight. Roy Roberts, Marie Brown and Owen Martin form the happy trio here.

Symphony's Program

Serge Koussevitzky will conduct the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the fourth program of its regular series of concerts in Symphony Hall this Friday afternoon and Saturday evening.

The orchestral suite from Stravinsky's ballet, "The Fairy Kiss," will be given its first Boston performance at these concerts. It will be remembered that the suite was performed in Sanders Theater, Cambridge, in 1928, with the composer conducting.

The ballet bears the sub-title "Inspired by the Muse of Tchaikovsky." In it Stravinsky uses themes from Tchaikovsky to his own purposes.

Ruth Posselt, the first soloist to appear with the orchestra this season, will be heard in the performance of Dvorak's Violin Concerto, which has not appeared on the programs of these concerts for a number of years.

Miss Posselt was born in Medford and made her first public appearances in Boston when still a child. In recent seasons she has given concerts in many parts of Europe and has appeared with the principal orchestras in Paris, Amsterdam, Chicago and Detroit, as well as previously with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Schumann's Fourth Symphony in D minor will be the concluding work.

The Joneses

Atlanta, Oct. 26 (AP)—B. B. Jones' automobile was stolen. He reported it to police and a few hours later Officers Jones and Elliott recovered the car—at Jones avenue and Elliott street.

The story was phoned to the Atlanta Constitution by Reporter Jones.

Park Film In Sixth Week

"What Price Innocence," the morality film authored and acted in by the late Willard Mack, is now in its sixth week at the Park Theater and paralleling the "Ecstasy" box office record there.

Jean Parker, outstanding young Hollywood star, heads the cast. She plays the role of the girl whose innocence betrayed her.

Betty Grable

Assisting her are Betty Grable, Ben Alexander, Bryant Washburn, Minna Gombell, Louise Beavers and Mack, who also wrote and directed this dramatic masterpiece.

Dr. Homer S. Cummings, surgeon-general of the United States Public Health Service, Washington, D. C., one of the many notables who have endorsed this picture, says of "What Price Innocence":

"The Public Health Service is pleased to commend this excellent presentation of a delicate subject."

Howard Features Roxanne

Roxanne, second only to Sally Rand as a fan and bubble dancer, heads the "Too Hot For Paris" show opening at the Old Howard today.

Roxanne

In addition to the three daily performances, there will be a special Friday midnight show.

The screen attractions for the week are "The Return of Jimmy Valentine," with Robert Warwick, Roger Pryor and Charlotte Henry, and "I Found Stella Parish," starring Kay Francis.

'Sing, Baby, Sing' At Bowdoin

—VOTE AMERICAN—

Gayety Films

"Meet Nero Wolfe," with Victory Jory, Lionel Stander and Joan Perry, and "Educating Father," with Jed Prouty, Shirley Dean and Dixie Dunbar, are the Gayety film features.

CHAPTER 11

"The Carnival Committee, but they disclaim it. It was really my fault for not having things clear. We all thought that the masks and dominoes would go like hot cakes, since everyone had to be incognito. But people really are so hard up," said loyal Ann, "that it's understandable lots of them couldn't afford the extra money for the evening, and made their masks and dominoes at home. I should have known that."

There was a pause. What would he say? Would she lose her job?

"Initiative is important in a store, Miss Delafield, but—" —he tapped his desk with a pencil, looking away from her for a moment—"when it is a brash order it has to be—er—curbed."

"I know. I'm sorry." She bit on her underlip to steady it. What was coming now?

"You said you were willing to begin at the bottom. I believe that direct selling contact with the customer would be beneficial to you. Hitherto, you see, you have always dealt with yourself. You are sensitive, Miss Delafield, and to a certain extent self-centered. It would be good for you to learn to take orders and to become a mixer with all kinds of people, as a salesgirl must become a mixer. I shall put you, I think, in the department of misses' dresses, on the second floor."

"Oh! That will be perfectly all right!" Ann managed to stammer. She was to be salesgirl in the dress department, in the domain of Renita Parrish, who detested her!

"Your $18 a week will continue, but I shall expect you to show sales. Here will be an opportunity for your friends to come in and buy from you. The buyer of misses' dresses, Miss Shellfish, and Miss Parrish will explain to you the excellent qualities of certain dresses, the styles and values, and this information you will repeat to the customers. The department has been lagging behind. It requires enthusiasm! It needs sales talk. You understand."

Forced Smile

Ann forced herself to smile.

She was being demoted, but an opportunity was being given her to show the stuff she was made of. She would make good.

He flung what was perhaps intended as a sop to her vanity (she wondered) as she was leaving his room.

"I should like you to attend the classes, held Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, from two to three, in the big stockroom on the seventh floor. There you will learn the principles of supply and demand, of distribution and overhead and profits. Most essential knowledge for a buyer."

A buyer! He expected her to work up to be a buyer! That was good news.

She went down to the Misses' dresses and was greeted by quaint little Miss Shellfish, a spinster in the middle forties.

"Mr. Bradley just 'phoned to say I'm to look out for you. You ought to be a real help to us with your pretty looks, my dear." Behind Miss Shellfish's glasses were wistful eyes that drank in beauty. No one know better the coquetry of dresses, despite her plain appearance. "As Renita isn't here just now to assign you your stock, suppose you take these three racks of party dresses—the organdies, the taffetas, and the satins—and see what you can do with them for a beginning?"

"I'd love to," Ann said enthusiastically.

"Every morning you have to go over your stock, first thing, and arrange it on the stands and hangers," continued the Buyer. "We need a nice young girl like you to pep us up a bit, for the department hasn't been doing so well lately. I guess that's why Mr. Bradley sent you to us."

"How generous and frank she is!" thought Ann. Such a complete contrast to Brenda Seitz! And others!

"You know, buyers aren't supposed to play favorites among the girls, but we can't help having our special likes, and I'm sure we'll get along famously, Miss Delafield," said Miss Shellfish kindly.

Didn't she read the Society columns in the papers every night, and hadn't she often seen the name of this pretty girl at the parties?

Paris Stylist

"I'll be ever so grateful," said Ann, "if you can give me pointers?"

"Oh, you'll pick it up soon, enough. You have the air. You've been around. I guess some of the young ladies that made their day-boo the time you did'll be good customers."

How did the quaint little buyer know anything about her debut?

Ann was surprised.

But it was charming and peaceful in the misses' dress department, with its grey-carpeted floor, its softly-lighted fitting salons, and the gowns that were like bouquets of flowers.

At one end was the de luxe French room, with its expensive imports.

"That's the stylist from Paris in there," volunteered Miss Shellfish, reverently indicating a black-satin clad presence that trailed with a kind of lazy arrogance among the gilt sofas and potted palms.

She continued: "And over there's the Special Order room. They call it an Atelier."

With difficulty, the Paris-educated Ann repressed a smile. Miss Shellfish, long in kindness and short in accent, made the word rhyme with Bedella.

"In the de luxe fitting room, a cup of tea is served to the customers or near-customers. As a kind of comeon, you know!" Miss Shellfish laughed. "If your feet get sore with the standing, I don't mind if you coax Chang Lo—that's the Chinese maid—to give you a cup in the middle of the afternoon, for that's our busiest time, when I couldn't let you off long enough to get up to the restaurant."

It was an understood thing in Barclay & Weiss that employes might snatch 15 minutes towards the end of the day in refreshing the inner man, if circumstances allowed.

But woe betide anyone who overstayed their period in the restaurant upstairs over lemon pie or coco-cola for the manager was perfectly liable to report them to those higher up!

"I'm wondering," said Ann to the buyer, "if you would give me permission to 'phone to some of my girl-friends? I know half-a-dozen girls who are going to Florida before Christmas, and these organdie evening gowns with the little capes and ruffles are just the adorable things they'd fancy."

"Go to it," allowed Miss Shellfish, well-pleased.

With Renita Parrish in the condition she very often was (poor Renita! she'd hate to report her, but it was obvious that half the time she didn't know what she was doing) it was delightful to have someone around with initiative.

Renita herself came into the Misses' Dress department while Ann was at the telephone. Miss Shellfish had gone.

Renita walked a little unsteadily. Her face was flushed under her auburn hair, her green eyes strangely bright.

"So? You here? Telephoning the boy-friend, huh?"

"Just a minute, Miss Parrish. It's business I'm after. Excuse me, will you?" said Ann, continuing what she was doing.

Renita drew up a chair beside her at Miss Shellfish's desk and fixed her eyes, with definite hostility, on the very pretty face of the new salesgirl.

Last night she had 'phoned Gordon Gavin at his rooming-house, wanting him to come down to her apartment in the Village, but his landlady had informed her that the young man had gone out.

'Swing' Perfume for Festive Occasions

By ARLINE GOULD

IF YOU are a smart young modern who likes sophisticated clothes and daring new perfumes, here is something to revel in.

It's a "swing" fragrance and just one whiff of it makes you think of going places and doing things this season.

It is the ideal football perfume because it is as tangy as the game itself—and sophisticated enough to be worn insolently over sweater and skirt to cocktails and dinner later.

Introduced in Paris last year, it was immediately adopted by smart women everywhere. It is a most successful and beguiling embodiment of the new theory that a fine perfume must be versatile and a little elusive.

Versatile enough to make its own the personalities of many women—elusive enough to evade all labels. Any perfume easily tagged as "exotic" or "ingenue" or "outdoor girl" is likely to superimpose its own personality too strongly on the wearer. And when that occurs, its charm is lost in being all too obvious.

This perfume is as modern as Schiaparelli's zippers and even comes in a striking streamlined bottle. Since it isn't too early to be thinking of Christmas gifts, we recommend it for a place of honor on your "must" list—both to and from.

If you would care to know the name of this new perfume which will help you swing into the season with swing clothes and music call Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, or write to her at the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Brilliant Coat Star Tagged by Congress

THIS WINTER you'll live intensely, zestfully! And there's nothing that quite keys you to the new mood like the season's wardrobe darling—the cloth-and-fur coat that's so vital, so alive in every line!

Miss Mary Morrison, of Louisburg square and Peterboro, models the Fashion Congress winner that expresses the idea exactly. It is a spirited adaptation of a Molyneux model, hugely flared in back. Very young and becoming is the plastron front of grey krimmer. It's a little aslant at the bottom, and just below the belt there is a hankie pocket! To be had in black, though the model shown is a particularly beautiful shade of old stone blue. The fabric is a new hair cloth. The krimmer-trimmed grey suede hat points in two directions at once—up over the brow and down over one eyelash. Coat is around a hundred dollars.

New Ways of Serving Pumpkin

Pies Go Modern in Gay, Fancy Dress

FROM MARTHA LEE'S MONDAY MORNING BROADCAST OVER STATION WMEX

OF COURSE, you've seen the gay golden pumpkins piled high in the fields and on the doorsteps if you've driven through the country lately, and it's time to bring them into the kitchen for the most tempting of pies.

Della Lutes in her charming book, "The Country Kitchen," speaks of her father's favorite pie in unforgettable words—"pumpkin custard with thin, golden brown tegument over the top like cellophane covering for a pixie's bed."

Here is a pumpkin pie seasoned with spice and topped with cocoanut and a refrigerator pumpkin pie for those who have gone modern, although we are sure it would only bring blasts of disapproval from the man whose prejudices and likes so dominate "The Country Kitchen."

COCOANUT PUMPKIN PIE

1 cup cream
½ cup sugar
2 cups cooked or canned pumpkin
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon mace
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup shredded cocoanut
3 eggs
Pastry

Combine the cream, sugar and pumpkin and stir until well mixed. Add the salt, spices, vanilla and ½ cup of the cocoanut. Mix thoroughly and add the well beaten eggs. Pour into a pie pan lined with pastry and bake in a hot oven (450 deg. F.) for 20 minutes. Reduce the heat to moderate (325 deg. F.) and bake about 45 minutes or until firm. Remove from the oven, sprinkle with the remaining cocoanut and bake until cocoanut is browned slightly.

"YOUR FIGURE, MISTER!"

By IDA JEAN KAIN

(Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WHY DO fat people die young?

Dr. H. K. Beall explains that there are about 4500 feet of blood vessels—or about five-sixths of a mile—in each pound of fat. Then, if you are 30 pounds overweight, you have 25 miles excess of blood vessels, through which the heart must pump blood every five-sixths of a second or less.

The average life span is 70 years and the heart, lungs and kidneys are capable of running your machinery for about that length of time. But, if you allow your weight to increase 30 pounds, the added avoirdupois puts an extra strain on the important organs, and because they are forced to work at high pressure, they wear out faster.

Statistics prove that overweight leads directly to degenerative diseases. Research by the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company on 26,200 deaths from various causes shows fat people highly susceptible to diabetes, heart diseases, circulatory diseases and kidney complications.

The mortality from heart disease in overweights was about two and one-half times as great as in underweights or normal weights. From all circulatory diseases the overweight mortality was twice that of normal weight, and nearly twice as great from kidney disease. There were no deaths from diabetes in underweights.

These statistics are evidence that the important functional organs give out under the strain of abnormal weight.

So you had better take your doctor seriously when he tells you to reduce. Obesity is a disease which begins at around ten pounds overweight. Up to that amount there is no increase in mortality, but above that figure the mortality rises alarmingly.

Fat is stored food. Your body requires a definite amount of energy for basal metabolism—digestion, circulation, heart beat and all the internal processes—and food is the fuel which supplies the energy needed. The calories which you hear so much about are the heat units by which you measure this fuel value of food.

The average man doing office work requires from 2200 to 3000 calories per day, depending on his normal size. If you take more calories than you need, the excess will be stored as fat, but if the amount of food eaten supplies less calories than you use daily, body fat will be burned as fuel. There is no escape from this law of nutrition.

To reduce, you must burn the stored calories by using just two-thirds your energy-requirement allowance of calories. Reducing diets for men range from 1200 to 1800 calories per day. Send for the leaflet "Pointers to Slimness" to estimate your calorie requirements. In a reducing diet calories are cut, but there is no decrease in the protective elements. The leaflet "Man-Size Reducing Menus" gives a satisfying diet balanced for health and less weight.

Hard Luck or Bad Play?

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Many a player would groan less away from the Bridge table if he thought more while sitting at it.

South played today's hand badly, yet instead of acknowledging that fact, he complained that the odds favored his line of play by three to one.

Even this, however, was not a very reasonable ground for complaint when it is considered that his contract was ironclad by another line of play.

South, dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

North:
♠ J 9 7
♡ A Q 10 8 6
♣ 10 5 2

West:
♠ A 5
◇ J 10 9 8 5
♣ J 8 6 3

East:
♠ K 4 2
♡ K J 4
◇ 7 4 2
♣ Q 9 7 4

South:
♠ Q 10 8 6 3
♡ 9 8 7
◇ A K Q
♣ A K

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♠ | Pass | 2 ♡ | Pass |
| 2 N T | Pass | 3 N T | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

West opened the Jack of diamonds and South won with the Queen. He could count five tricks in the minor suits and saw that if either heart honor were in West's hand, four more tricks could be secured in the heart suit. The odds were three to one that West would have at least one of the two outstanding honors.

Without thinking any further about the hand, South immediately led the nine of hearts and let it ride. East won and returned a diamond. South took another heart finesse and this also was lost.

The result is only too easy to see. Declarer made only three heart tricks and his five tricks in the minor suits, and the defenders made five tricks with ease.

South should have seen that against any division of cards he was sure of making three tricks in the spade suit, the Ace of hearts and his five tops in the minor suits. He should not have touched the heart suit at all, but should have gone right after the spades.

A three to one shot is good enough when nothing better offers, but it should not be preferred to an absolutely certain line of play.

Married Comrades

By Adele Garrison

CHAPTER 134

I TOLD myself that a visit to the mad hatter must surely be the next thing on my itinerary as I came up to Mary in answer to her whispered summons and saw her fantastic garb.

"I know," she whispered, pulling aside the end of the scarf which she had draped over her face. "The Witch of Endor, had nothing on me, but I couldn't afford to let any of my face show behind this."

"Someone outside your window!" I repeated. "Quick! Cu into my room. I'll get your uncle at once."

"You won't have to," Dicky's voice sounded behind me. "I'm right here. What's all the row, Mary, and why the drapery?"

"Mary says Svengali was outside her window just now," said, looking steadily at him, hoping that he would interpre the name she had given as I had.

DICKY UNDERSTANDS

Dicky's nod to me was imperceptible to anyone else, and the tension of my nerves lessened. My husband understood and he was on the job. I need burden myself with no further responsibility.

"Wait here, Mary!" he said. "I'll be right back."

"Just a second!" I caught him by the sleeve. "Katie was just up here with a tale of hearing things creeping around outside and traveling up the walls of the kitchen."

"Which only proves," Dicky said with a grin, detaching my hand from his sleeve with a burlesqued flourish, "that lunacy is infectious—no—contagious."

He waved an airy goodby to u before taking the rear steps t the lower back hall, three at time. I knew by his choice o routes that he would get Katie' story on his way out. I turned t Mary, trying to make my voice nonchalant, concealing the very real anxiety which was mine o one point.

"Did this Svengali person se you, Mary?" I asked.

I wondered if my imagination were playing me false, or were her intent eyes questioning fo an instant.

There was no hint of suspicion in her voice, however, when she answered me.

"Not on your grandmother's tintype he didn't," she said.

"Come into my room and tell me about it while I dress," I suggested. "You're such a 'quick change' that you'll have plenty of time to dress afterward."

For Rome Olympiad

BENITO'S BENEFICENCE—[illegible] Mussolini marshaled Italy's Olympic point winners into his palace, made a microphonic speech to the nation and awarded a graduated scale of money bonuses to each prize winner in the Berlin games. [illegible] he said, to reward [illegible] with cash honoraria. But, by doing so he professionalized Italy's sport heroes and made them [illegible] for the Rome games in 1940. What he did not know [illegible] is that money gifts for sport performance violate the amateur rules and puts the Olympic [illegible] in the embarrassing [illegible] of having to return [illegible] rescind his [illegible] demonstrate footwork to [illegible].

Oracle's Error—[illegible] commentator on the [illegible] has set himself up as [illegible] of editorial Jove, [illegible] from Mount Olympus on all matters of football, the following excerpt from his Harvard-Dartmouth story seems pertinent. Wrote he of the play preceding Harvard's [illegible] touchdown, "[illegible] a sophomore [illegible] named Jack Schtare [illegible] [illegible] penalty [illegible] Harvard [illegible] apparently took [illegible] to let the game die before [illegible] over." Since the [illegible] has been a prolific critic of officiating [illegible] ought to buy himself a rule book and learn that time DOES NOT run "on the watches" while penalties are inflicted—one of the ABCs of the book. Also, according to gridiron law, no football game may end with a penalty against the defensive side. [illegible] under Rule 4, Section 3, Article [illegible]. Therefore Dartmouth might, intentionally or otherwise, have committed [illegible] infractions till the moon came up and not have ended the game until one play, free of penalty against them, occurred.

St. Vincent in Merry-Go-Round Muddle

PITTSBURGH PERPLEXITY—Considerable goofy football history was written in Pittsburgh during the past week, beginning with Pitt's defeat by Duquesne (October 17), Duquesne's defeat by West Virginia Wesleyan (October 23) and Pitt's victory over Notre Dame. This would seem to [illegible] West Virginia Wesleyan into some kind of mythical championship were it not for the fact that St. Vincent, a team not listed in current football geographies, beat Wesleyan 6-0 on October 10.

Mixup in Valhalla

NOTRE DAME MUDDLE—GARBLED REPORTS from Pitt Stadium had Charlie O'Reilly, Notre Dame quarter, as being expelled from the game for slugging, and precipitating a bench riot in which Coach Elmer Layden roughed an official. Walter Okeson, as the Judge Landis of football, immediately wired for details, possibly preparing disciplinary action. He found that what actually had happened was O'Reilly and the Pitt tackle, Don Hensley, were shaping up for fisticuffs when Linesman Hoban motioned O'Reilly and said, "Get out of here." O'Reilly mistook the order to mean he was barred from the game, whereas Hoban merely wished to shoo him back to his side of the line. Though, in the muddled moment, Layden galloped off the bench and pushed Hoban violently, the official refused to press any charge of misconduct and reported that Layden had offered satisfactory apologies.

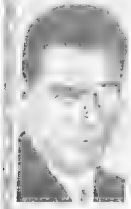
The Story of the Somerville Man Who Saw It Too Late

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO, ADVENTURERS:

Miss EVELYN KEER of [illegible] HINCKLEY STREET, SOMERVILLE, is [illegible] pinch hitting for her dad, George R. Keer of the same address.



FLOYD GIBBONS

Evelyn says she has never had any adventures, not yet, anyway. If she had she'd be glad to tell us about them. Her dad, on the other hand, has had one of those rip-roaring experiences that raise your hair [illegible] for a week afterward [illegible] then he never gets around to writing it [illegible] So Evelyn's writing that story for him.

[illegible] That makes him a Distinguished Adventurer and a [illegible] member of the club. But [illegible] it's Evelyn who grabs off the ten dollars that goes with the membership.

[illegible]

Floyd Gibbons will pay good money for good TRUE adventure stories. Hundreds of people in Boston and nearby towns have received [illegible] hundred dollar bills for their yarns, and there's no reason why you can't do the same, for as Floyd says, everybody has had at least one adventure. [illegible] won one hundred dollars for the story of his life's biggest moment, and you can do the same. For further details see the box at the right side of the page.

Attitude of Caution,
DUE TO UNCERTAINTY,
Advised in Buying

By LEWIS HANEY
(Professor of Economics, New York University)

New York, Oct. 26—The action of the stock market remained inconclusive last week, and there are still so many uncertainties that an attitude of caution is advisable.

On the whole, however, I get the impression that the chances of a serious reaction are smaller than they seemed a week ago. It can be said that the market stood up well before a rather widespread tendency to lighten position and take profits.

Last week the averages lost a sizable fraction of a point. Most of the standard measurements show the market to be just about where it was two weeks ago.

Bonds also reacted and considerable weakness appeared at times in government bonds, presumably the result of concern over the President's talk about keeping taxes down. Such a course would indicate continued borrowing and pressure toward further devaluation.

The general story of the week is that the average price of stocks moved irregularly sideways, with a declining volume of trading.

More specifically, the market slipped on Monday. It saved itself from tumbling on Tuesday. It then recovered its equilibrium and teetered on Wednesday and Thursday. Friday and Saturday brought signs of returning firmness—although these are none too conclusive.

Probably pre-election caution is responsible for much of the existing action. As the event approaches, people realize that it makes a vital difference in the business outlook. The tendency, therefore, is to lighten up or hedge. This would explain 80 per cent of the moves.

For example, most of the groups which gained last week were either the utilities or the inflation stocks, such as oils and metals.

Add to this a speculative restlessness (which is bound to exist when there is such a lack of equilibrium and so much chance to gamble), and you explain the moves in various miscellaneous "specialties."

Seasonally, it is generally found that "industrial" stocks do little either way in the last week of October. The "rails" often sag in that week, probably because carloadings have passed their seasonal peak.

It seems that the market has pretty well discounted the good third-quarter earnings statements. What traders and investors want to know now is whether earnings are going to continue to gain or not.

Thus, they turn to the coming election as one of the most important factors affecting the business outlook.

INCOME

FIRST SINCE MARCH, 1934

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 26 (AP)—The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad reported today a net income of $122,224 for the month of September, the first month for which a net income has been reported since March, 1934.

The figure represented an improvement for the road of $447,126 over September, 1935.

Gross revenues for the month, $6,806,181, were up 14.8 per cent over those for the corresponding month last year and were the highest for any month since March, 1932.

The month's operating expenses were $498,174 greater than those of September, 1935, the increase being due in part, a statement issued by the railroad said, "to the heavier program of maintenance of roadway and equipment."

Gross revenues for the first nine months of 1936 were reported up $4,971,579 or 9.5 per cent over the corresponding period last year and operating expenses up $3,194,669.

The deficit for the nine months amounts to $4,814,937 as compared with a deficit of $2,618,872 at this time of 1935.

CHEERS U. S. OPTIMISTS

By BROADAN WALL
Universal Service

New York, Oct. 26 — A good many people trying to figure out what is going to happen in our stock market are taking their cue from London.

Over there they have been having a boom, with special interest and favor toward oil and copper stocks. Not so long ago, London had a big boom in armaments shares, especially aviations.

London stock exchange business reached such proportions that the last settlement involved the biggest volume in many years. Obviously it is not an investment demand which creates such activity. Nor was it purely investment buying which so overwhelmingly oversubscribed a recent popular stock offering in London that brokers were physically crushed in the rush to subscribe.

These conditions are symptomatic of a speculative spree.

Sentiment is enthusiastic in here and in England and both countries share in the flight of other countries' capital. Foreigners are reputedly big buyers in London and foreigners are also big buyers in New York. Each money center is a haven for nervous European capital and therefore their respective securities are heavily owned by "foreigners."

Industrial profits have been rising both in England and in the United States. Indeed, it is a rosy picture, with optimists proclaiming that the upswing is still in full momentum.

What has happened is that both England and the United States cheapened their currency and are trying to celebrate. Only a few people realize as yet that the recent shift in the gold-bloc currencies, making them cheaper in terms of the dollar and the pound, really cancels a good deal of the British and American stimulus from cheap currency.

The dollar in particular has become much dearer to the rest of the world, which means that the foreigner has lost all or most of his advantage in buying our securities cheaply in terms of his own currency. A good deal of the attraction which existed in our securities for the foreigner therefore is removed.

More important, a good deal of the advantage which we enjoyed competitively, through a cheap dollar, has also been cancelled. The competition for international trade will become even stiffer than before as devaluating countries gain a better position in this contest.

In the present mood of the market, however, such considerations have little influence. Nor has the overhanging threat of a European conflict which in itself slows down business. The domestic election likewise plays a small role in the market, even though its outcome necessarily must have great significance.

The drouth has left in its wake over 148,000 "destitute" farmers.

These farmers are now employed on Works Progress Administration projects in 14 states covering the Great Plains and Central West drouth area.

Most of the farmers are employed on drouth rehabilitation and other projects for soil conservation.

OPERATIONS

$11,944 Deficit Shown

Portland, Me., Oct. 26 (AP) — The Maine Central Railroad today reported a deficit of $11,944 for September operations, although the road's income for the month was better by $131,328 than in September, 1935.

The deficit compares with a $17,944 deficit reported the same month a year ago. Expenses in September increased $104,991 over last year.

The road reported a large part of the increased expenses was due to charging into current accounts expenditures made in connection with flood damage of last spring.

Revenues for the month totaled $1,003,728 and expenses were $763,982, compared with $872,400 and $658,996, respectively, for September, 1935. Net revenues amounted to $239,746.

Wall Street Sidelights

New York, Oct 26—Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, which controls Pere Marquette Railway, stands in a position to be a substantial beneficiary if the latter road votes out its 1936 earnings in dividends.

Chesapeake & Ohio owns 48.2 per cent of Pere Marquette's voting stock, or 313,900 Pere Marquette common shares, 2100 prior preference and 13,600 preferred shares. Pere Marquette for the first nine 1936 months had earnings equal after dividend requirements on the preferreds to 91 cents a common share. Accumulated prior preference and preferred dividends, which have been suspended since 1931, aggregated $23.75 on May 1 last.

Coal Outlook And Reading Co.

Reading Co. is among railroads which are in a position to profit from larger coal traffic anticipated in the current quarter. Barring no unusual charges, the road's net operating income in the current month is expected to equal or exceed the $1,025,000 for September, which compared with $1,066,000 a year ago. For the first eight 1936 months the Reading earned $1.51 a common share, against 63 cents in the like period of 1935.

General Foods Third Quarter

General Foods earnings for the third quarter and first nine months this year are expected to be made public Tuesday. Responsible forecasts indicate the figures will be the best for the respective periods since 1931. Net for the three months is estimated in the neighborhood of 70 cents a share which would compare with 53 cents the preceding quarter and 55 cents the corresponding period of 1935. Such a result would make nine months of 1936 net equal to about $2 a share contrasted with $1.67 the 1935 period, and the highest for the comparable months in five years. The 1931 nine months profit was equal to $2.74 a share. General Foods directors have already indicated their intention to consider a special dividend after election. This year's full $1.80 regular payments has already been authorized.

More Companies Issuing Reports

Rising business profits apparently are breaking down the former objections of certain corporations with respect to issuing interim reports. The policy in the past has been to publish only annual statements. The Stock Exchange some time ago unsuccessfully endeavored to force listed concerns to put out more frequent operating data and later abandoned the idea. It now seems that many corporations which objected to forceful action are more willing to do so voluntarily. It is understood several corporations which never reported at quarterly periods before will announce earnings for the last three months and the year to date during this week. The list is expected to include at least three firms in the food industry.

United Air Lines New Tax Charges

One of the most strident objections of business and industrial leaders to the new federal surtax on undistributed profits has been that it will "cripple new industries, curtailing their normal expansion." The report of United Air Lines Transport Corporation, therefore, is of more than passing interest. United Air's September quarter net profit after all charges was $267,582, or 25.6 cents a common share. The quarter's charges deducted included one of $88,300 for the federal tax on undistributed profits, an amount equal to 8.4 cents a common share. In other words, without provision for the undistributed profits tax, United Air's quarter earnings would have been 34 cents instead of 25.6 cents a share. However, the undistributed charge made in the September quarter may at the year end be returned to the earnings column, due to the fact that such tax compilations are subject to year-end adjustments on a calendar year basis. It is interesting to note, however, that for the 12 months ended September 30, United Air's statement shows net loss of $1294 after all charges, including a charge of $91,650 for tax on undistributed profits. This shows how provision for the new undistributed profits tax is destined to distort all but fiscal year corporation reports.

Pennsylvania Earnings Jump

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—Pennsylvania Railroad Co. today reported September net railway operating income of $8,432,828, compared with $6,546,213 in the like month last year.

For the first nine months net railway operating income was $59,098,596, compared with $49,853,406 in the corresponding period of 1935. The company's gross revenues last month rose to $39,496,378 from $31,139,641 in September, 1935.

Passenger revenues for September, the fourth month of reduced fares, rose to $5,925,764 from $5,101,604 last year, a gain of 16.2 per cent.

Lumber Industry Holds Steady

Washington, Oct. 26 (AP)—The National Lumber Manufacturers' Association reported today the lumber industry during the week ended October 17 stood at 68 per cent of the 1929 weekly production average and 70 per cent of 1929 shipments.

Output at 573 reporting mills totaled 249,681,000 feet, shipments 249,942,000 feet, and booked orders 263,601,000 feet.

Revised figures for the preceding week were: Mills, 615; production, 265,546,000 feet; shipments, 252,757,000 feet; orders, 271,071,000 feet.

VOLUME EASES

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
Copyright, 1936, Universal Service

New York, Oct. 26 — In spite of the violence of political ballyhoo, business activity proceeds calmly, though volume has been easing off moderately in recent weeks.

Apparently the widespread tendency to postpone some decisions until the popular verdict has been rendered on November 3 is contributing to some moderate contraction.

In face of political claims and counter claims, it should always be borne in mind that general business, though better than at the nadir of the depression, is still distinctly in the subnormal zone.

The most striking aspect of the recovery thus far this year has been the belated pickup in the laggard heavy goods industries. There were hidden and invisible, intangible assets in the heightened efficiency of the better managed concerns in the durable industries, and this constructive change did not beome apparent until the recent expansion in volume.

This type of situation explains some of the striking improvements in net corporate earnings for the third quarter, reflecting operating efficiency. The General Electric Company ,for example, reported a 76 per cent increase in earnings for the period, although its pickup in volume amounted only to 28 per cent.

Depression proved the occasion for inducing American industry to divest itself of surplus fat. It has trimmed down and is fit. Another invisible safety actor is the increased interest during the last 15 years of enlightened corporate executives in improving industrial relationships. Much sound thinking has gone into this better relationships between management and men. This has involved more than mere adequate wages.

It has improved the whole psychological approach, and has included a well thought out policy, with such features as pensions, safety appliances, and employe representation for collective bargaining. Thoughtful managers are recognizing that neglect of this human side of business merely creates opportunities for outside agitators.

Business leaders are also coming to feel that there is no security for any unless the representative companies all adopt modern attitudes toward labor. There is an increasing tendency to have audits made of these human factors by outside experts as a check on management.

Realistic employers, however, are not fooled by the political effort to postpone open labor warfare until after the election. It is understood that administration forces were eager to defer a showdown in the steel industry, and more recently this influence has been discernible in the Pacific Coast shipping situation, which has thus far been postponed in two instalments.

It has now been put off until October 28, and unquestionably strong efforts will be made to put off the real test until after November 3.

BAY STATE TRADE

Two News ITEMS REVEAL Upturn

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

Savings Banks deposits and new car registrations figures, both showing good increase over last year, reveal the improvement in Massachusetts' affairs in the last year.

All of which indicating that Bay Staters while opening their purses a bit more freely are not forgetting the age old principles of thrift, despite urgings to the contrary.

The thrift angle is particularly interesting in the face of constant repetition of spend, spend theories. Serving nearly [illegible] depositors savings banks in Massachusetts reported today that their deposits have increased by [illegible] in the past year. October dividends paid today alone total [illegible].

Passenger and commercial car registrations in Massachusetts in September totaled [illegible]. This is a gain of [illegible] over the same 1935 month. For the 10 months to September 30 passenger and commercial car registrations totaled [illegible] against [illegible] for the same period a year ago. A breakdown of the types of vehicles registered reveals that trailers scored a really sensational gain. In September, 1935, one was registered. This year there were 512. For the ten months the figures are [illegible] against 407.

Notebook: Our current favorite among the motor equipment issues, Motor wheel is finding a number of friends in the brokerage offices . . . Several daily letters have mentioned it of late . . . General Refractories, mentioned here a few weeks ago with other members of the same group, seems a certain extra dividend payed before the year is out . . . Earnings of $3 per share are indicated. Which leaves, after deducting dividends paid to date, a taxable balance of $1.50 per share.

Last week nearly all of the important averages of various groups of stocks, as well as many composite averages, including all groups, held at slightly above logical resistance areas. A significant performance suggesting the technical position of the market was merely being strengthened before an attempt to work into new high territory. At the same time, the breadth of the whole market contracted and volume decreased as prices eased.

* * *

Technical Notes: From the above we draw the conclusion that traders have a right to at least maintain their holdings until last week's lows are broken . . . For both rails and industrials on the Dow-Jones closings . . . Investors, we believe, should hold on, anyway . . . For even if a few weeks of irregularly lower prices do prevail, the ultimate outlook is for higher prices . . . Of the individual groups utilities last week took top honors . . . For while all others declined they actually moved higher for the week.

Since polls are the fashion at this time of year, we are going to run one of our own. It will be based on the views of certain brokerage letters and several regular weekly advisory releases. Choice is made from this writer's observations regarding past accuracy of forecast. The result this week indicates cautious bullishness is in order. We make this finding because several suggest maintenance of fully invested positions. But are outnumbered by those who suggest a trimming of sails, though not complete liquidation, on strength.

STEELS, OILS, RAILS LOWER

New York, Oct. 26 — Quiet but persistent selling loosened prices fractions to 2 or more points in today's stock market.

Offerings of leading steels, motors, oils and rails were large at the opening, but the trading volume dwindled thereafter and near the fourth hour the ticker tape moved slowly.

Brokerage quarters found little discouraging in business and industrial news and most were inclined to attribute reactionary tendencies partly to the desire of some traders to stand aside pending the election. Others thought the continued unsettlement of European affairs might have been a retarding influence.

Secondary bonds emulated shares, but dealings in this department were comparatively small. Commodities were mixed. Foreign currencies were narrow in terms of the dollar.

A few issues such as U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Douglas Aircraft and Cerro de Pasco managed to register gains up to a point or so.

The steels were among the first to slide. Conspicuous on the downward path were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Mack Truck, Electric Auto-Lite, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, J. I. Case, Deere, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Union Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, Southern Pacific, American Metal, U. S. Rubber common and preferred, Western Union, Anaconda, International Nickel, American Smelting, Standard Oil of N. J., Shell Union, Westinghouse, General Electric and Du Pont.

American Telephone was resistant for a time, but gave ground later. A shade lower were Socony-Vacuum, Kennecott, Studebaker, Boeing, Sperry, National Distillers, Goodyear, North American and Northern Pacific.

Consolidated Edison voted a 25-cent extra which was according to expectations, and it was suggested the disbursement may have been previously discounted.

Current Topics

Of interest to holders of the steels was the survey of the magazine "Steel" which forecast a further slight dip in mill activities over the next few weeks but believed from then on to the end of the year the operating rate would expand briskly.

Steel makers at present, it was said, are awaiting releases for a large amount of material, particularly from the automobile field. It was estimated orders on the books are sufficient for the manufacture of 1,000,000 cars in the fourth quarter.

Utility observers advanced the thought the rate of increase in power consumption over last year is likely to narrow appreciably in coming weeks and the highest weekly total, which usually occurs in December, may not be substantially above recent peak levels.

At the beginning of foreign exchange transactions the French franc was off .00¼ of a cent at 4.65¼ cents, and sterling was down ⅛ of a cent at $4.88¾.

Dealings Gain In September

Dollar value of sales on registered securities exchanges in September was $1,882,282,523, up 13.6 per cent from August and 12.2 per cent from September, 1935, according to compilation of SEC.

Stock sales in September had a value of $1,594,411,570, up 11 per cent from August while bond sales, with value of $287,860,575, were up 30 per cent.

Shares turned over during the month totaled 59,626,094, or 17.1 per cent more than August. Principal amount of bonds sold was $378,519,548, up 87.5 per cent from August.

The commission also announced that during August 62 registration statements involving $271,000,000 became effective under Securities Act of 1933. Industrial and commercial companies accounted for $251,000,000, financials $13,000,000 and reorganizations $7,000,000.

WHEAT STOCKS Above Last Year

Stocks of wheat in country mills, elevators and warehouses as of Oct. 1, 1936, amounted to 117,195,000 bushels against 103,382,000 on October 1 last year, Department of Agriculture reported.

The increase in stocks over last year is more than offset by a decline in farm stocks from 267,972,000 on Oct. 1, 1935, to 227,089,000 bushels on October 1 this year.

As compared with a year ago, stocks in country elevators are larger in nearly all states with the exception of the Northeast and the Northern great plains, the department said. However, when farm stocks are added to these, total stocks in these positions are below those of last year in all areas.

TRADE, STOCKS

Marking TIME UNTIL Election

By B. C. FORBES

Marking time.

On the even of a fate-laden presidential election, the absence of acute nervousness on security and commodity exchanges and in trade and industry must be regarded as encouraging.

Many important decisions concerning capital expenditure programs are being held up pending the outcome on November 3. A Landon victory would unquestionably unleash many stimulating announcements. Should a Roosevelt landslide unexpectedly occur, the effect, in the opinion of men of affairs, would be disturbing.

A drastic reduction in the Roosevelt plurality of four years ago, insuring a less lopsided Congress, would not, according to calculations of business leaders, necessarily precipitate pronounced pessimism.

Whereas a year ago it was widely taken for granted that the New Deal would receive another lease of life next month, no such assumption now generally prevails.

It is impossible to disassociate political from business talk and business considerations these days. Among the employing classes, whom Roosevelt has repeatedly attacked and scorned, these recent developments are interpreted as gratifying:

The "polls" heretofore regarded as most trustworthy portend defeat of the New Deal.

Public sentiment has clearly turned against ultra-radicalism, against anti-American political proposals.

President Roosevelt, alarmed over the results of his hostility to fillers of pay envelopes, is now once again proclaiming his faith in private enterprise and his determination to uphold America's existing economic system. (Albeit he insists on remaining silent concerning his son's prediction that NRA will be revived.)

Dr. Townsend's appeal to his followers to repudiate Roosevelt. In certain states, notably California, the Townsend vote is reckoned as important.

Polls among college students, favoring Landon in almost every instance, notwithstanding the wide assumption that the majority of educators are distinctly socialistic.

The betting odds in Roosevelt favor have declined, and, according to Wall Street, "Landon money" is freely offered.

That there has been substantial economic and employment recovery since 1932 is universally accepted.

What is keenly disputed is to whom belongs the credit therefor. New Dealers claim it all and choose not to recognize that recovery has eclipsed ours in various other countries.

Here are illuminating facts, not theories, showing what has happened in railway car loadings, commonly accepted as an accurate yardstick of national activity:

"In July and August, 1932, freight loadings were only 48 per cent as large as they averaged in these months in the five years 1925-1929, inclusive. During the next four months," the authoritative Railway Age points out, "freight loadings increased until in December, 1932, they were 57 per cent as large as in 1925-1929. This was one of the largest non-seasonal increases in history."

"We are told now by New Deal orators that in the months immediately following the banking crisis, business was in such a frightful condition that there was danger of 'revolution' and that it was necessary for the government to adopt the most heroic measures to save the nation from ruin. What was actually occurring in business at that time? It was improving faster than it ever did before or since in any equal period in the history of the United States . . .

"The third period of recovery began in August, 1935. What caused it? There had occurred only one great change affecting business. This was the destruction by a decision of the supreme court late in May, 1935, of NRA. The most important policy of the New Deal. If NRA had helped business, it would have declined after this decision. What, then, did occur? An increase between May, June and July, 1936, over the same months in 1935, of 18 per cent in freight loadings and of 20 per cent in railway gross earnings!"

In my humble opinion it cannot be questioned that employment and enterprise would expand if New Deal uncertainties received a quietus on November 3.

Comments of Brokers

Only seven trading days are left before election. In the interim, would look for general irregularity or weakness in list as a whole, interspersed with flare-ups here and there in special situations, where prices may respond favorably to earnings reports and prospective extra dividend payments. Would buy utilities on any decided weakness.—Paine, Webber & Co.

We would prefer to have the market rest for a while around current levels, rather than make a premature attempt to approximate, or better, the upper limits of the 178-180 area Dow-Jones industrial average. A thorough preparation for a development along the latter lines would enhance the prospects for success. —Hornblower & Weeks.

We would continue along the lines suggested early last week, of taking speculative profits on rallies and maintaining a major portion of trading funds in a liquid position.—Prentice, Blauner & Brady.

The slackening in steel activity coming at the time when election ideas have the most influence naturally exaggerates the reactionary sentiment in trading circles. There is nothing scheduled for the week likely to induce sufficient new buying entirely to offset these momentary influences to an easier tone to the market. However, unless there are more definite threats to the business recovery movement than now appear, there is no reason to change policy of buying on reactions.—Shields & Co.

The imminence of elections may exert a restraining influence, but the maintenance of a constructive market attitude appears warranted. —J. S. Bache & Co.

The New Deal's "Social Security" Tax Plan Means Social Insecurity

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT devoted a brief paragraph of his speech at Worcester last Wednesday night to a "defense" of the New Deal's Social Security Act.

He said:

"I want to say a word also to the wage earners who are finding propaganda about the security tax in their pay envelopes.

"I want to remind them that the new social security law was designed for them — for the greater safety of their homes and families.

"The fund necessary to provide that security is not collected only from workers.

"The employer, too, pays an equal share.

"And both shares — yours and the employer's — are being held for the benefit of the worker himself."

WHAT the President did NOT explain to the workers is this:

FIRST—The Social Security Act is now operating as a TAX-GATHERING MACHINE to provide revenue for the Federal Government.

SECOND—The taxes, being imposed upon (1) wages and (2) payrolls, are taxes extracted from the working capital of the nation, imposing tremendous and progressive burdens upon EMPLOYMENT and consequently creating NEW and FUTURE risks of SOCIAL INSECURITY.

THIRD—While THE TAXES HAVE BEGUN, the BENEFITS which the Social Security Act promises are mainly deferred and may be illusory.

Employers are now being taxed for "unemployment compensation."

But unemployment compensation will not begin before 1939. Even then, it will provide only fifteen dollars a week or less to an unemployed worker, for not longer than half a year.

Old-age pension taxes will begin on January 1st.

But NO old-age pensions WILL BE PAID in the next five years—none until 1942.

FOURTH—There is NOTHING in the Social Security Act to prevent the bulk of the revenue it produces being SQUANDERED BY POLITICIANS.

In fact, the Social Security Board recently appointed by President Roosevelt himself has publicly announced that at least a portion of the taxes levied on employers for "unemployment compensation" IS INTENDED TO BE SPENT BY THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT.

On page two of its "Circular No. 1" the Social Security Board distinctly says:

"The Federal tax will BRING MONEY into the GENERAL TREASURY, for the GENERAL PURPOSES OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT."

Furthermore, Congress is NOT REQUIRED to appropriate for old-age pensions the tax money collected from both employers and employes for the purpose of paying old-age pensions.

FIFTH—Even if Congress should appropriate all of the old-age pension tax money to social security, this very procedure in itself will mean MORE TAXES.

It is estimated that, if all the money goes to the old-age pension fund, a surplus of FORTY-SEVEN BILLION DOLLARS will be accumulated in forty-four years.

This "reserve" must be invested by the Secretary of the Treasury in Federal securities, on which the Federal Government must pay into the old-age pension fund at an annual interest of not less than three per cent.

On forty-seven billion dollars the interest charge would be ONE BILLION FOUR HUNDRED AND TEN MILLION DOLLARS A YEAR.

In order to pay this interest every year, the Federal Government would have to levy STILL FURTHER TAXES in that vast amount, additional to the social security taxes now levied on employers and workers.

The Government would also have to INCREASE THE NATIONAL DEBT some twelve billion dollars above its present all-time record high, in order to provide itself with the securities which are to be sold to the pension fund.

This huge debt would necessarily become PERPETUAL, involving PERPETUAL TAXES.

THE whole scheme is utterly unsound, and certain to be depressive in its effects.

Governor Alfred M. Landon was unassailably right when, in his Milwaukee speech, he pledged DRASTIC CHANGES.

Governor Landon said:

"We WILL NOT create a needless reserve fund of forty-seven billion dollars.

"Our plan will be on a pay-as-you-go basis, with the result that we will know year by year just what our pensions are costing us.

"THAT IS SOUND, COMMON-SENSE FINANCING."

Two Kinds of Relief

THE MOST accurate definition of New Deal relief policy ever given was contained in the address delivered in Los Angeles by Governor Landon.

Here it is:

"We all know that under this Administration the managers of relief have played favorites—they have developed two classes of relief, COMMON and PREFERRED."

Who are the beneficiaries of PREFERRED relief?

Just take a look around.

Whenever there is a "fat" job to be filled, paying a salary of from two to five thousand dollars a year or more, who gets it?

You know the answer. Some politician, or some friend of a politician, fills that lucky spot. The hangers-on of New Deal politics get the "fat" jobs, where the pay is good and the work is light.

That is PREFERRED relief, under the New Deal.

Who are the beneficiaries of COMMON relief?

Take another look around.

Whenever there is a job of darned hard work to do, allotting a dozen or so hours a week at a few paltry cents an hour, who gets it?

You know the answer, too. Some destitute citizen, who has no influence with the local New Deal czars but who has a large and hungry family in his home, falls into THAT spot, if he is lucky.

That is COMMON relief, under the New Deal.

Nation to Mark Navy Day

TUESDAY will be Navy Day, and "Sea Power—What Is It?" will be its slogan in Boston and throughout the nation.

Thousands, visiting the Navy Yards, inspecting the cruisers, battleships and submarines, will be interested in "sea power."

The troubled state of the world—war in Spain and other countries on the point of war—makes it patriotic to be interested.

But "being interested" isn't enough. Seeing to it that America's defenses are sufficiently strong to resist attack by the world's most formidable nation is better.

That is the challenge of Navy Day. Real Americans will accept the challenge.

Purge the Voting Lists

THE Presidential election is not a merry-go-round, from which voters, like children catching rings, can drop a new ballot with every turn.

The law gives every qualified citizen the privilege of voting ONCE—not twice or three times.

This fact makes serious the charges of Republican leaders that hundreds of Massachusetts residents are registered as voters in two or more cities.

It is the DUTY and RESPONSIBILITY of the proper city and town officials to put an immediate stop to these multiple registrations.

Their presence on the voting lists is a menace to clean, honest government by decent, law-abiding citizens.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

It's Minnie, the [illegible] usherette, this time.

Minnie's mad, and over a situation which has troubled many a more exalted modern lady, namely—why do the "dim-faced dolls" get all the orchids, while the "brainy girls" are left to sit at home 'n' darn the sox? Which, so far as social circulation goes, seems to put intellect in the same handicap class with halitosis and B. O.

Elsie Robinson

So, "Should smart gals hide their brains if they wish to be popular?" asks Minnie.

The answer to that, Minnie, is—THEY CAN'T. NOR NEED THEY.

Yes, I know there are substantial reasons for your wrath. Pickings do seem lean for learned lassies. The average male undoubtedly does prefer the twittering little moron with her "Oo—o, aren't you wo-o-o-onderful!" line.

But it isn't the female brain which the timid male avoids. It's something quite contrary to intelligence — feminine SHRILLNESS . . . A shrillness which he thinks is a sign of bossiness, but which is actually based on fear.

"WE'RE TOO NOISY"

We modern women are still as edgey as cats in a strange garret, Minnie. We haven't had time, yet, to become accustomed to our new position, our suddenly acquired power and privilege.

We still can't quite believe it's true—and we're horribly afraid that the other fellow will share those doubts, will ignore us or belittle us. So, like all frightened people, we're apt to get noisy to cover our own confusion . . . to boast and bluster and bully.

Not so we ladies recently emerged from our domestic coop.

We're restless, suspicious — lacking a sense of values.

We've yet to learn how to handle ourselves and our situations lightly. As a consequence, we expend enough emotion on some pee-wee problem to start a revolution.

LOWER YOUR VOICE

Naturally, now that we've entered the larger scene of action, we expect similar homage, and are considerably peeved if we don't get it, convinced that the whole world's "agin" intelligent femmes.

The world isn't against intelligent women, Minnie, but it's leery of "shrill smarties" and with good cause. It knows, to its grief, that women are still unadjusted, intolerant and apt to be utterly ruthless and unreasonable if their wrath is aroused.

These things aren't true of ALL women, but they are so generally applicable that the fine woman is penalized for her foolish sisters.

But—don't conclude, from that, that intellect's a handicap, sister. It isn't. You don't need to hide your brain, youngster. Just lower your voice.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

New York, Oct. 26.—Diary: Leonard Liebling the music critic, sent me a letter from Odd Uddbye in Oslo, a land of many Odds. And came a note from George Ade, setting off on his usual hegira to Miami Beach. Also word from Edison Marshall, who will soon be away to far lands again.

O. O. McIntyre

So pinging at my paragraphs until Charlie Driscoll came and we discussed newspapering and Kansas. Then with my lady, and she bought me a silken muffler with golden dots, as fancy as ever I saw. Thence along the avenue meeting Jules Glaenzer and Ernest Truex.

To a Swedish dinner that the Bob Brinkerhoff's cook dished up and Lee Shippey, talented Los Angeles gazetter, there and Don Herold and a flush of high jinkeries. Afterward popping by Dick Berlin's a moment and Kay Brush and Bob Winans just going. Abed reading Arthur Guiterman's "Gaily The Troubadour."

The self-appointed automobile watchmen who guard curb parked cars in the theatrical, movie and restaurant zone often gouge as much as $100 a week out of motorists. No one seems to know who allots their territory.

To appearances it's a right of seizure and woe betide the interloper who tries to horn in. They are skilled in spotting an owner a block away and race to his car to apply a polishing rag. It is mostly unwanted and envious service and tribute is achieved by the sheer art of metropolitan bluff.

Most conspicuous of the social come-back ladies is Mrs. Josh Cosden. When her husband's great oil fortune evaporated in the crash, blotting out magnificent homes in New York, Palm Beach, Oklahoma and Europe, she took the blow standing. And is a refutation of the notion that when you lose your money you lose your friends, for she is still bracketed in the top flight set and invited everywhere.

In that circle she is "Our Nell," who has in a few years become a leading interior decorator. Her most recent assignment was a call to London to express her taste in decor in a new mansion built by Lord and Lady Mountbatten.

Personal nomination for tops in sustaining radio nonsense — Gracie Allen.

Hassard Short was the dinner host success of the past London season. The stage director has developed a culinary artistry in his bachelor chambers off Hyde Park and has invented many drams and dishes that have filtered to many high class restaurant menus over there.

Among them the H. S. dessert—a mixture of fresh peaches, boiled, allowed to cool in their own liqueus. Orange curacao is added and the dish served with vanilla and raspberry ice cream.

He is also responsible for Black Velvet, a libation of champagne mixed with stout. But the piece de resistance is Kournick a la Russe—a deep dish sort of plum pudding with an overtone of sherry.

Milton Berle is about the last of the chatterbox monologists—that is the only one regularly employed. He is the white haired boy of the cabaret floor shows in New York and Chicago and at the only vaudeville house left—Loew's State. A brash jerkin, suggesting a campus cut-up, he has a leering grin and a shocking flair for vulgarities.

Perhaps the audiences know his guffery gaucheries are only acting, for he is strictly a mamma's boy and goes nowhere without her.

Bagatelles: The actor James K. Hackett drank a quart of whiskey a day for years until he inherited a fortune and then became a teetotaler . . . Tullio Carminati was voted the best dressed man in London in a newspaper contest over there . . . Rupert Hughes is a skilled pianist . . . Will Cuppy has read every mystery book published in the past 15 years . . . No wonder he's a hermit . . . Bing Crosby is one of the most popular of the crooning movie actors in Italy, of all places . . . "Ding," the cartoonist, has parted company with his well-known mustache.

Elbert Hubbard wrote a lot of mawkish tweedledee but now and then a gem sluiced out of the dross. For instance this: "As we grow better we meet better people."

Bible Text: "Lo, I am with you always even until the end of the world."—St. Matthew 28:20.
Suggested by the Rev. T. F. Marshall, Trinity Church, Stoughton.

Let Democracy Work!

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

All our national political campaigns fill the air with noise and blather. Illustrious windjammers strut their stuff, pose for the cameras in Daniel Webster attitudes, toss their forelocks, spout like whales, snort or croon, agitate their Adam's apples and put on their trapeze act in a frock coat.

Edwin C. Hill

It's a gruesome spectacle in some ways, and I'm rushing into print to say I love it, morbid as I may seem.

This campaign fever and staccato pulse is one of the best things that ever happened in this country. The record registration all over the country, somewhere around 20 per cent above that of four years ago, is a healthy sign of resurgent democracy. The low registration of previous years, the good-natured public indifference to the doings of the "politicians," has been a national disgrace; and, if it had continued, would have pegged us as a rabble too dumb and lazy to appreciate or use our great political heritage, unworthy of our suffrage, our history, our national aspiration.

EVERYBODY'S FIGHT

This piece has been sluiced out of a hot argument I got into at a dinner company the other night, and I like to think similar arguments are going on at a few million other American dinner tables. The kick-off was by an informed and cultured man, the holder of a master of arts degree from a silk-stocking New England college, the author of several books on economics. He said:

"There won't be any hope for this country until public affairs and public discussion are dominated by men of specialized intelligence, of genuine taste and education, of some decent reserves and some training in seemly public behaviour."

"In other words," said a skeptical guest, "you think the country ought to be run by nice people."

That started the fireworks.

Several of us jumped him and several others backed him up. It finally boiled down to the question of whether or not traditional American democracy is a grand, gusty, free-for-all sort of thing, in which anything of importance is anybody's fight, or whether it is a gentleman's club.

One of the guests was a quiet, gray-haired man of obvious poise and distinction, whom I had identified as a considerable figure in New York financial and business affairs. He said little, but when we were all out of breath, he quietly rounded up the argument with a few simple observations.

"It has been too much of a commonplace to belittle the word 'democracy'," he said. "We have overworked it; the orators have torn it to shreds and we have kicked it around carelessly, without taking the trouble to find out what it really means.

A CRUCIAL PERIOD

"I believe in it. I was a plumber's helper in my youth. I wanted an education. There was a state university, with a splendid faculty and fine facilities wide open to me, with small tuition. I worked my way through college. I suffered no social inferiority.

"When I got out, the way was clear for any achievement up to the limit of my abilities, with no one having the slightest concern about my family or antecedents. The measure of my attainments has been exactly the measure of my capacities. My limitations and failures are my own, and not those of society or government.

"I feel grateful for institutions, political and social, that gave me this opportunity. I want to help save these institutions. I want every ambitious boy to have the same chance I had.

"It's unique and unprecedented in world's history. We've got something, and we've got to hold on to it. Therefore, I say, forget about all the noise and bad taste of a political year. Thank God when you hear a couple of truck drivers wrangling and identifying powerful politicians as low-down, dirty this-and-thats. They'd have their ears cut off in Europe.

"Therefore, I'm arguing, parading and voting. As long as this happens, we're all right. All we have to do to save democracy is to let it work, without worrying too much because there aren't enough broad A's in the campaign."

Our Rights

By Mrs. Kin Hubbard

A great many people do not seem to realize that the ballot is SECRET.

Perhaps it is because at the time of registration a person is given a ballot to mark to show the party affiliation. This, however, does not mean that when the actual moment for voting comes a voter must cast his vote as he or she registered.

No one knows how we vote when we walk into the booth and pull the curtain. No one has a right to know.

So long as we can vote as we please, without fear, and so long as we have a recognition of our responsibility to those who come after us as well as ourselves, we have a strong barrier against tyrannical government in this country.

And so REMEMBER when you walk into your voting booth on November 3, you can vote as your conscience dictates, without fear. Your ballot is SECRET.

You are answerable only to your conscience for what you do.

You are the only one who knows what lever you pull down or what you mark on your paper ballot.

Be sure you are conscious of the responsibility that rests with you.

You are not voting as Democrat against Republican. You are voting for a form of government.

You are deciding whether we shall continue our national development under the Constitution, which grants us personal liberty, or whether we shall have a bureaucratic form of government copied after those which are causing so much hatred and bloodshed in Europe today.

Do not be bought with your own dollars.
